GANG KILLING LIKELY SEQUEL TO A RECENT GANG MURDER

Democratic Politician and Constable Was Shot When Standing in Front of Saloon by One of Three Men Who Drove Along Franklin Avenue in Auto.

JUD BEGAN 10 YEARS AGO IN BROTHER'S BAR

Slaying of Skippy Rohan Led to Series of Gang Killings—Police Believe Latest Murder May Be Connected With J. P. Sweeney's Death.

Investigating the murder of William T. Egan, member of the Democratic City Committee, in front of a saloon at 1400 Franklin avenue last night, the police today are proceeding on the theory that it was part of a long series of gang killings and that it had some connection with the shooting and killing of John P. Sweeney, lawyer and moderate politician, at Sixth and Chestnut streets, the night of March last.

The Sweeney shooting, in which Greenberg, an ex-convict, also was wounded, was believed also to have been traceable to other gang slayings, extending back possibly as far as the killing of Thomas (Skip) Rohan, a gangster, in the saloon of the late Thomas Egan, leader of "Egan's Rats," and brother of William T. Egan, at Broadway and Chestnut, 18 years ago.

The shooting of Rohan is said by police to have violated a gang understanding that blood was never shed in an Egan saloon and a violation of this rule started a fight between gangs, leading to a long series of killings, after which gangsters, known as "Egan's Rats," were suspected. After one of these slayings about nine years ago, a man seen by detectives in St. Louis was found he will be questioned about the Egan murder.

Died at City Hospital. The shooting occurred at 9:10 p. m. and Egan died at the city hospital at 9:55 p. m. Egan was 45 years old and lived at the Holland hotel, 203 North Sixth street. He was a member of the Democratic City Committee and represented the Fifth ward.

After the shooting, told police he was standing at the door of the saloon when several shots were fired at him from an automobile which drove rapidly east on Franklin avenue. He was shot in the back, the bullet entering under the left shoulder blade and lodging at his chest. He also had slight bullet wounds in the left arm and right leg.

HYDROAIRPLANE IS CATAPULTED INTO AIR SUCCESSFULLY

Launching Device Is Tested by the Navy for Use on U. S. Battleships.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—A hydroairplane was launched successfully yesterday in tests at the Philadelphia navy yard of a catapulting device, which sent the No. 9 two-seater craft into the air at a speed of 48 miles an hour from a standing start.

The experiment proves, naval experts declare, that aircraft can be launched from battleships equipped with catapults on the turrets, and it is proposed to equip every battleship. The seaplane was piloted by Commander H. C. Richardson, U. S. N., who commanded the No. 3, which got as far as the Azores when the No. 4 crossed the Atlantic. Lieut. William Fellers, U. S. N., was a passenger.

The catapult was built at the naval aircraft factory here under the supervision of Commander Richardson and Commander G. C. Westervelt, U. S. N. Many high naval officers and scientists witnessed the tests. The catapult consists of a crooked track 50 feet long, in which a cradle is fitted. This cradle, bearing the seaplane, is pulled by an endless chain from a dead stop to top speed. As the cradle is stopped abruptly at the outer end of the track a powerful pneumatic engine quickly swings the cradle around and hurls the plane into the air. It is so designed that planes may be thrown into the wind without turning a ship from its course. The lack of this feature in similar contrivances previously tested caused their rejection by the Navy Department, it is said.

As the plane was hurled from its cradle yesterday it dipped scarcely three feet and then began to soar rapidly.

AIR VALVES MOVED FROM 17 AUTOS PARKED AT SOLDAN HIGH

Halloween Revelers Soap Windows of Closed Cars—Porch Culture Found on Lamp Posts. The arrest of a boisterous little negro boy was the only one made by the police on Halloween. He pulled the trolley of a Bellefontaine street car off the wire at Eleventh and Chestnut streets, and, when he repeated the stunt, the car crew captured him.

Owners of 17 automobiles, parked at Soldan High School during the progress of evening classes, found their cars flat when they emerged from the school and when they attempted to inflate them, found that the air valves had been removed so that the tires would not retain air. The windows of the enclosed cars were broken and some machine bodies were chipped and a few windows in curtains were broken.

Windows along Olive street east from Taylor avenue were systematically soaped by a boy brigade which skipped few on the way downtown.

MAN SAID TO CONFESS WRECK

PONTIAC, Mich., Nov. 1.—Henry W. Gaten, 59, of Lexington, Ind., held here in connection with the wreck of a Grand Trunk passenger train near Lapeer last Friday night, confessed today, according to railroad detectives, that he loosened a rail and caused the accident.

The officers quote Gaten as saying he ascribed the act to a mental lapse, due to a sunstroke suffered some time ago. Three persons were injured in the wreck.

CORDELL HULL OF TENNESSEE CHOSEN TO SUCCEED WHITE

Former Congressman Unanimously Elected Chairman of National Democratic Committee.

GOLTRA UPSETS PLAN TO NAME LONG

Missouri Committeeman Quoted as Saying It Would Be "Disaster to Party" for Him to Resign.

Cordell Hull of Carthage, Tenn., former Congressman, was elected unanimously to the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee, at the committee's meeting at Hotel Jefferson this afternoon. He succeeds George White of Marietta, O., who served as chairman in the 1920 presidential campaign.

White's resignation was announced at 3:15 p. m., and was accepted with the passage of a laudatory resolution on White's services, introduced by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who has been active in seeking to bring about a change in the chairmanship. Glass nominated Hull, and Senator Harrison of Mississippi seconded the nomination. Hull had been agreed on earlier in the afternoon as being acceptable both to the McKelvey and Cox-White factions of the committee.

The selection of Hull followed the refusal of Edward F. Goltra, national committeeman from Missouri, to resign to permit the election of the Missouri State Committee of Brockbridge Long of St. Louis, formerly Third Assistant Secretary of State, in Goltra's place, and his subsequent election to the chairmanship of the National Committee. Long had been agreed upon by the committee.

Senator Harrison, in the forenoon, asked Goltra if he would resign to permit Long's election. Goltra asked for time to consider, and then went to a breakfast, at which he was host to the National Committee members attending the meeting. His answer was received shortly before noon.

Goltra refused to resign. Senator Glass, one of those in the movement to force the resignation of Chairman White, emerged from the committee room with the statement that Goltra had refused to resign. "What reason did he give?" a reporter asked. "He kept a party of gentlemen waiting two hours," he replied. "Then he came into the room, puffed his cigar and said it would mean disaster for the Democratic party for him to resign at this time."

OPPONENTS' PROGRAM FORCED ON NORTH DAKOTA OFFICIALS

Independent Candidates Elected, but Their Proposed Amendments Are Defeated.

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 1.—Continuation of the State Bank of North Dakota, an institution fostered by the Nonpartisan League, was indicted in returns today from Friday's recall election pointing to defeat of the proposed law for liquidation of the bank.

While the independent candidates for Governor, Attorney-General and Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor were successful by majorities ranging from 4000 to possibly 7000, as shown in returns compiled by a group of independent newspapers, these same returns indicated a likelihood that all proposed amendments would be defeated.

It was admitted at independent headquarters here. All the proposed amendments and laws—three of the former and six of the latter—were endorsed by the independents and opposed by the league. Their defeat would mean that the new independent administration, headed by Governor-elect R. A. Nestor, would have to go on with the league's program of State-owned industries.

MAN GETS YEAR IN JAIL; FINED $1000 FOR 'MOONSHINING'

Prosecutor Favors Waiving Sentence if Friends of Italian Give Bond for His Departure From U. S.

Tropea Giuseppe, 23 years old, of 5240 Elizabeth avenue, was fined $1000 and sentenced to a year in jail in Judge Wurdeman's court at Clayton today, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquor.

The penalties were imposed on recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Mueller, who said he had reason to believe that Giuseppe, who has been in this country only four months, came here for the express purpose of engaging in the manufacture of "moonshine" whisky.

Mueller declared, however, that he would recommend a parole in case friends of Giuseppe would buy him a ticket to Italy and give bonds for his prompt departure. In case he did not leave, or returned to America within a given period of time, Mueller said he would declare the bond forfeited and have Giuseppe arrested to serve out his term.

The Italian was arrested by Deputy Sheriff on Sept. 22, when they found him finding a still of 100 gallons' capacity in the basement of a house at Baldwin avenue and Lackland road, St. Louis County. A vat 10 feet long, 8 feet wide and 6 feet high was almost filled with corn mash. Two cans and an earthen jug contained 12 gallons of moonshine whisky.

While out on bail, Giuseppe was arrested on the same charge by Federal officers on Oct. 21. The case is still pending. Mueller said that in case of a parole, he would undertake to arrange matters with the Federal authorities so that Giuseppe would leave the country.

J., Nov. 1.—Eleven fishermen are believed to have been drowned, possibly more, by the upsetting of a small open motor boat in the southeast storm that prevailed along the New Jersey coast. One fishing boat is missing. The sea tragedy was not discovered until two bodies were washed ashore near the Cold Spring Coast Guard Station and the finding early today of an upturned boat.

MAN SWALLOWS POISON AFTER GIVING CHECKS TO TWO GIRLS

Special to the Post-Dispatch. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 1.—After having given two girls, sisters from Cleveland, each a check for $1000 as a surprise, and promising them another surprise later, George F. Barnes, 40 years old, of Wilder, Idaho, swallowed poison in a room at the Seelbach Hotel last night. He has a slight chance for recovery, according to city hospital physicians. In a note, Barnes directed that a telegram be sent to a brother, W. H. Barnes of Clayton, Mo.

A pistol and a number of parimutuel tickets were found under the pillow. No money was found. "I had been on a long spree and somebody stole $3000 worth of Liberty Bonds and $2500 in money from my room so I thought I might as well end it all," said Barnes. Barnes came here from Cleveland with the two girls to whom he gave the checks. "The checks are not good," said Barnes today. "I would have placed them in the money or bonds in the bank to cover them if they had not been stolen." Barnes admitted he had been playing the races. He said that he left his home with about $5000 and went to Cleveland.

PERSHING, FOCH, DIAZ, BEATTY AND JACQUES LEAD LEGION PARADE

Japanese Delegates in U. S. Give Emperor 3 Banzais in U. S. Style ON BOARD THE JAPANESE SPECIAL, Oct. 31.

By the Associated Press. "We do as the Romans do," said Admiral Baron Kato today, addressing his fellow Japanese on the train in observance of the birthday of Emperor Koshitsu. "It is the custom in our country," he continued, "to propose over the cup the health and prosperity of his majesty; but, as in this country the cup is not used, I shall merely propose three banzais."

Then the Japanese imperial acclaim pealed forth as the train sped over the prairies of South Dakota.

BOMB EXPLODES AT U. S. CONSULATE IN LISBON

Note Is Found Referring to Sacco-Vanzetti Case—No One Hurt in Explosion.

By the Associated Press. LISBON, Nov. 1.—A bomb exploded this morning on the staircase at the American Consulate here. No damage was done, however. The police attribute the outrage to the agitation in connection with the cases of Sacco and Vanzetti, Italians under conviction of murder in Massachusetts.

The bomb, which apparently was some form of grenade, had been placed before the door of the quarters of the American consulate. It appears that it exploded after the Consul, in leaving the quarters, had given the grenade a push with his foot, but the interval intervening was sufficient to give him time to escape.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—A dispatch from Consul-General Hollis at Lisbon, received early today at the State Department, reported the bomb explosion in the consulate there. The Consul-General said the Portuguese Government was investigating energetically and would make efforts to apprehend those responsible for the affair. Only trifling damage to the building was reported.

The message said that a note, protesting against the conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti in Massachusetts, was shipped beneath the door of the consulate and a few moments later the explosion occurred.

Investigation has been instituted by the Department of Justice in threats being made by radicals in connection with the case of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Men Whose Names Figured in Defeat of Central Empires Take Part in Kansas City March Called Greatest Since Lincoln's Time.

VETERANS OF FORMER WARS ARE IN LINE

Members of G. A. R., of the United Confederates and of Spanish War Organizations Participate—Memorial to Dead Dedicated.

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 1.—What officials said was the greatest procession of marching men in this country, since President Lincoln reviewed the victorious Union armies, passed before the eyes of five allied military leaders here today.

It was the parade of the American Legion, and the spectacle came as a climax to the legion's national convention. As a mark of respect for their elders, the legionnaires had invited members of the Grand Army of the Republic, United Confederate Veterans and Spanish War Veterans to participate, and heroes of '64 and '98 did their best to keep step with the youngsters who were olive drab and navy blue.

When the long procession swung into line it was led by the five men whose names figured prominently in spelling the defeat of the Central Empires—Foch of France, Diaz of Italy, Jacques of Belgium, Beatty of Great Britain and Pershing of the United States.

The parade was a tribute to the veterans of the American Legion, and the great military leaders a tumultuous greeting that spoke the affection of the American soldier and people for the two men.

After hearing the visitors this morning the convention adjourned at 10:30 a. m. until tomorrow morning, to permit the delegates and visitors to attend the dedication of Kansas City's memorial.

One of the greatest assemblages in the history of the State paid homage to America's war dead here today at the dedication of Kansas City's Liberty Memorial, being built in honor of the city's sons who fell in the nation's service during the great war.

A mass of humanity, tens of thousands of American Legion members, veterans, citizens, distinguished war leaders from allied countries, and high ranking officers of the United States Army and Navy, in company with the delegates to the American Legion convention, gathered on the crest of a hill to witness the dedication of the Liberty Memorial. The memorial, a great column, will stand as a pledge to future generations that the sacrifices made in the war were not in vain. Marshal Foch, Gen. Diaz, Gen. Pershing, Admiral Earl Beatty, Vice President Coolidge and National Commander Emory of the American Legion, city and State officials and civic leaders took part in the dedication exercises.

A battery of artillery boomed at intervals all morning from the Memorial Hill over the heads of the throngs that filled the plaza.

CREW OF DOOMED SHIP TAKEN OFF IN HEAVY SNOWSTORM

Big Seas Running as the West Ivan Saved 45 Men From Waterlogged Japanese Ship.

TWO CAPTAINS GIVE WIRELESS INTERVIEW

Boats Smashed on Lee of the Fukui Maru, but Those on Weather Rail Are Launched.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 1.—First-hand account of the rescue of 45 officers and sailors of the steamer Fukui Maru, 1200 miles off Cape Hatteras, by the steamer West Ivan, a blinding snowstorm and heavy seas, Oct. 27, was contained in wireless interviews with the masters of the two ships printed in the Seattle Times.

The West Ivan, operated by Frank Waterhouse & Co., after picking up the wreck victims, proceeded on her voyage to Yokohama. The Fukui Maru, apparently kept above water by her deck load of lumber, was sighted Saturday by another steamer and her actual fate has not yet been ascertained.

"We received the Fukui Maru's distress call at 2:50 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 27," Capt. Fred Pearson of the West Ivan said in his wireless message. "We were about 45 miles distant from the ship. We made all steam, but were handicapped in reaching the vessel by head winds and seas, with a blinding snowstorm."

"At 11:14 o'clock the crew's net sighted the Fukui. At 12:10 we went alongside, the crew ready to launch the boats.

"The Fukui was in a bad condition. She had a heavy list to port. The starboard life was gone. A ragged hole showed in the bow. She was shipping seas forward and aft and her forward deck load was partially gone.

"They used flag signals, saying their ship was sinking and that they must abandon her at once. They attempted to load two boats on the lee side, but were unsuccessful. Then they succeeded in launching one boat on the weather side. One man fell overboard, but was rescued by a rope. Then they got two more boats in the water. It took an hour and 28 minutes to launch the boats. Heavy seas were running and the wind kept increasing. We had difficulty in maneuvering the ship to stay alongside.

"At 3:55 o'clock their boats were alongside and we took the men aboard. All the officers and men were in good health.

"Captain S. Harata of the Fukui Maru said the vessel first experienced the storm Oct. 24, and that shortly afterward, with part of the bridge gone, and the bow stove in, the Fukui began taking water. Repairs were ineffective and on Oct. 27 the collision bulkhead gave way and water poured into No. 1 hold. The generator room was flooded, but the radio was kept in operation through the use of storage batteries. An attempt to run for Dutch Harbor Alaska, 500 miles away, failed because of the ship's condition.

EGAN KILLING BELIEVED TO BE RESULT OF SWEENEY MURDER

Policemen arrived at the hospital shortly after Egan was taken there and they questioned him for 10 minutes. Egan was in agony and spoke with great difficulty.

Chief O'Brien today said he asked Egan: "Won't you tell me what you were doing?"

"No, no," replied Egan. "Do you know who shot you?"

"Yes."

"Then tell us."

"No, I ain't saying anything."

"Did I have anything to do with the shooting of Ben Funk and Ben at Rigoletto Inn?"

"No, no."

Conversation With Priest.

At this point Father Timothy Dempsey of St. Patrick's Church arrived in response to a telephone message after Egan had asked for a priest. Father Dempsey today said he arrived at the city hospital at 9:40 p. m. in response to a telephone message and was with Egan until his death 15 minutes later.

Father Dempsey said: "I bent over Egan and said to him: 'Willie, who shot you?' and he replied: 'Father, I don't know. They drove up in an auto and shot me in the back.' I had known Egan 20 years. I am convinced that, under the circumstances, he would have told me if he knew who shot him."

Father Dempsey said Chief O'Brien, Detective Chief Hokenstad and other policemen were there when he arrived and he did not hear Egan tell anyone he knew who shot him, though this may have occurred earlier.

Theory in Sweeney Shooting.

At the time of the shooting of Sweeney last March it was thought the shots were intended for Max Greenberg, a former associate of Milner and Funk. One of the bullets wounded Greenberg, who was standing near Sweeney, Egan was questioned after this shooting and was taken to the city hospital, where Milner said Egan was not present when the shooting was done.

Policemen who ran to the saloon after Egan was shot saw two automobiles at the curb. One was Egan's own machine, into which he was being helped by a man who said he was John Daugherty, a chauffeur. In the other machine were Clarence Powers, a chauffeur, of 2711 Park avenue, and William P. Colbeck, a plumber, of 932 North Newstead avenue.

They said William Robinson, a negro, who had been driving their machine, had run away. Powers and Colbeck said they were riding east on Franklin avenue at Fifteenth street when they heard shots at Fourteenth street and stopped to find out what had happened. They denied Robinson, the negro chauffeur, was arrested at his home, 21-0 Tine street. He said he heard shots when at Fifteenth street, and drove a block east to the saloon, where Egan walked out to the machine with a revolver and a holster in his hand, and said something to Colbeck. Robinson said that Egan at that time was wounded and seemed to be in great pain. Powers and Colbeck again were questioned, but denied that they had seen or talked with Egan.

Empty Revolver Back of Bar.

After Daugherty and Patrolman Dolan had started to the hospital with Egan, other policemen went into the saloon and found Doering there alone. He said he had heard shots outside, but did not know anyone was shot. In a drawer back of the bar an empty revolver was found.

Policeman Dolan heard the shots when he was a block east of the saloon on Franklin avenue. He ran to Fourteenth street and saw an automobile standing near the side door of Egan's saloon on Fourteenth street. One man was helping another into the machine. The policeman ran up with his revolver drawn and cried "Halt!"

"It's me," said Egan, who seemed to be in great pain. "I've been shot. Get to the hospital as quick as you can."

Dolan did not report that Egan had made any statement on the way to the hospital as to whether he knew who shot him.

On the way to the hospital Egan's machine ran out of gasoline. Daugherty announced that the machine was in front of 1419 South Twelfth street, about two blocks from the hospital. Policeman Dolan left Daugherty with the machine and returned to the hospital and returned with an ambulance. Daugherty was gone, but Egan's machine was still there. After taking Egan to the hospital Dolan returned. Egan's machine had disappeared. Daugherty's address is not known to the police.

No Revolver Found on Egan.

No revolver was found on Egan. He had $431 in cash in his pocket and he wore diamond studs, rings and cuff buttons and had a gold watch and chain. There was no indication that robbery had been attempted.

A man, who refused to give his name, telephoned to Detective Chief Hokenstad today that he believed another man was wounded when Egan was murdered. He said Egan was talking with a man who had asked him for money, and was about to take some money from his pocket when a shooting automobile came west on Franklin avenue at high speed and swerved toward the saloon corner. He said two shots, one from a revolver and one from a shotgun, were fired from this machine and he saw both Egan and the man who had asked for money stagger as though they had been hit. The machine, he said, drove west to Seventeenth street and then north.

Policeman Inspector Gerk informed detectives that he saw Max Greenberg board a Pennsylvania train for New York at noon yesterday. Greenberg was accompanied to Union Station by a lawyer, Gerk said.

Death notices published in the newspaper today describe Egan as the father of James Egan. In an application for letters of administration filed in the Probate Court today by Egan's sister, Mrs. Mamie Wolfel, of 4451 S. Arlington avenue, it is stated that Egan "left no widow and no children." The application says the estimated value of his estate is $2000 and that so far as is known he left no will.

Succeeded Brother on Committee.

Egan inherited the political connections of his brother, Tom Egan, who died a few years ago, and whose saloon, at Broadway and Carr street, was a political center in the Fourth, later the Fifth, Ward, a river ward, extending west to Twenty-second street, and between Market and Biddle streets.

The followers of Tom Egan were known as "Egan's Rats," and gang ethics prevailed among them, so that

let's wounded Greenberg, who was standing near Sweeney, Egan was questioned after this shooting and was taken to the city hospital, where Milner said Egan was not present when the shooting was done.

Democratic Committeeman Slain, Scene of Shooting, and Boy Witness

WILLIAM T. EGAN.

The Stein, 9-year-old witness of murder.

the arson ring which was rounded up by detectives following a series of incendiary fires here in 1916. They were awaiting trial on the arson charge when they were convicted in 1917 of looting interstate shipments and were sent to the Federal prison at Fort Leavenworth. Previous to their conviction they were known to have been intimately associated with Egan and it was through this friendship, detectives said, that Milner and Greenberg were able to exert political influence which extended to Washington, D. C., and which resulted in their release from the penitentiary on a commutation of sentence by President Wilson on recommendation of the Federal Pardon Board.

It was shortly after Greenberg's release from Leavenworth penitentiary, which followed that of Milner several months, that Greenberg inspired all ranks of the allied army of racketeers. The world knows well the story of allied success under his direction, and the word of mine was the word of the glory of that achievement.

He then greeted Gen. Diaz, Gen. Jacques and Admiral Beatty, paying a tribute to the achievements of each.

"I am also honored," Gen. Pershing continued, "to speak for my friends and neighbors here in Missouri and to accord you, our guests, a most sincere welcome to this grand old State where I was born and where I lived in boyhood. Monsieur Le Marechal, we of Missouri are especially pleased to be the first thus formally to welcome you to America."

The general then praised the work of the legion and spoke of the necessity of Americans "carrying on" in the defense of the principles for which the allies fought four years.

Gen. Pershing then turned his attention to the legion and praised its campaign for Americanism and kindred ideals. He urged the legion to humbly to the late Col. Frederick Warren G. Harding at Washington and to the nation as a whole, a message of peace. The message, prepared by R. A. Long, president of the Liberty Memorial Association, in the name of Kansas City is being carried by a dove, emblem of peace and good will.

Work of Legion Praised.

The general then praised the work of the legion and spoke of the necessity of Americans "carrying on" in the defense of the principles for which the allies fought four years.

Gen. Pershing then turned his attention to the legion and praised its campaign for Americanism and kindred ideals. He urged the legion to humbly to the late Col. Frederick Warren G. Harding at Washington and to the nation as a whole, a message of peace. The message, prepared by R. A. FOCH SMOKES COB PIPE FROM WASHINGTON, MO., PREFERENCE TO CIGAR

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 1.—SEATED in the drawing room of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Kirkwood, where he has been "billed" during his stay here, Marshal Ferdinand Foch today declined a cigar and in its place he tapped to the brim with his favorite French tobacco one of the cob pipes presented to him yesterday while passing through Washington, Mo. Leaning back in his chair, the Marshal of France puffed away with all the contentment of a native of the Ozarks.

A fund of $2,000,000 was raised locally for the memorial.

Marshal Foch brought to the legionaires a personal declaration of comradeship and from his Government bore the official greetings of France.

Crowd Shows Enthusiasm.

The appearance of the Marshal and Gen. Pershing in the convention hall today was the signal for the wildest enthusiasm. The two stood side by side in the center of the platform and were cheered vociferously for three minutes. Gen. Pershing smiled, bit his under lip, and motioned the crowd to sit down. They only cheered louder. The Marshal stood looking at the crowd. He bowed his head a moment, and his eyes were moist.

Mrs. Alban Taylor of Kansas City, standing to the left of Gen. Pershing, sang the Marseillaise while the convention stood at attention.

Then Mrs. George Cowden sang the "Star-Spangled Banner." When she had finished Marshal Foch turned and thanked her.

Commander John C. Emery presented "our comrade of the legion," Gen. John J. Pershing, to the convention.

The standards of Missouri, Nebraska, Texas and Pennsylvania were carried to the stage and placed behind Gen. Pershing. The Missouri standard got the honor position. Gen. Pershing was born in Missouri. To settle the rivalry of the states claiming him, Gen. Pershing declared:

"If you will accept me as an ordinary buddy in the rear rank I will be fully satisfied, and this brought wild cheering.

For Nearly Four Years.

"For nearly four years," Gen. Pershing declared, turning to Marshal Foch, "the armies of the west have been fighting independently or else under some temporary agreement to render mutual support. There was no supreme direction that would insure unity or co-ordination of effort."

"It was not until the dark days of disaster in the spring of 1918 that necessity forced the issue, and Marshal Foch was unanimously selected as allied Commander in Chief."

"Calm, confident and aggressive," he became a solid and inspired all ranks of the allied army of racketeers. The world knows well the story of allied success under his direction, and the word of mine was the word of the glory of that achievement.

He then greeted Gen. Diaz, Gen. Jacques and Admiral Beatty, paying a tribute to the achievements of each.

"I am also honored," Gen. Pershing continued, "to speak for my friends and neighbors here in Missouri and to accord you, our guests, a most sincere welcome to this grand old State where I was born and where I lived in boyhood. Monsieur Le Marechal, we of Missouri are especially pleased to be the first thus formally to welcome you to America."

The general then praised the work of the legion and spoke of the necessity of Americans "carrying on" in the defense of the principles for which the allies fought four years.

Gen. Pershing then turned his attention to the legion and praised its campaign for Americanism and kindred ideals. He urged the legion to humbly to the late Col. Frederick Warren G. BOY WITNESS' DETAILED ACCOUNT OF EGAN MURDER

Abe Stein Says Three Men, One Dressed Like a Woman, Fired on Egan From Auto in Front of Saloon.

Abe Stein, 9 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stein, 1423A Biddle street, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he saw the shooting of Egan, whom he had known by sight.

"I was coming home from the Columbia Theater, Sixth and St. Charles streets, and I was walking on the south side of Franklin avenue, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth," he said. "I saw Egan coming out of a doorway—I think it was the Palace Theater door. He walked ahead of me. Then I saw a big black touring car coming east on Franklin avenue from Sixteenth street and stop in front of the saloon. It had the curtains up, but they were loose, so you could get in easy."

"The machine stopped in front of the saloon and two men ran out of the saloon and got in it. One of them had a brown suit and walked like a man. There was a man in the back seat already and a dark negro, with a chauffeur's cap, in the front seat. They kept the engine running."

"The man in the back seat fired a shot from a revolver into the front window of Egan's saloon, and then the man with the sack got a rifle or a shotgun from the car and fired a couple of shots at a wooden stand the newsboys stand in, in front of the saloon."

"Then two men ran up from Thirteenth street and picked Egan up, and a machine car, a swift from Gay street (half a block south of Franklin) with another man driving it, I didn't know any of these men either. The machine was about the size of a Dodge; it wasn't a Ford, I know a Ford. It looked like a touring car."

Egan Taken Away in Auto.

"They put Egan in this car and it went over to Washington avenue. The only policeman I saw around there came up about that time from Fifteenth street. I didn't see him get in this machine. There were five or six men standing around the corner. I didn't get scared, but I took me down to the station afterwards to tell them about what I saw. I couldn't tell if the dress that man wore was for Halloween or what. I didn't hear any of the men say anything. The first machine drove away fast."

Abe is a pupil in a lower grade at the Carr School, Fifteenth and Carr streets. Teachers there said that the child's ability to relate facts as he sees them is good.

89TH DIVISION MEN HOLD A REUNION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 1.—"The chateau of the Elks Club is in the hands of our troops. Beyond that, there is nothing to report."

This was the communal yesterday issued by Brigadier-General Frank L. Winn, former commander of the Eighty-ninth Division and presiding officer at the division's reunion in Kansas City.

The Eighty-ninth Division fought for democracy in France and they got it yesterday at their first business meeting. General, Major, Captain, Lieutenant and private shared equally in the festivities and forgot the distances which separated them in the war in the celebration of their glorious victory.

With lusty voices the old boys and the young boys joined in the reminiscent division songs, "Hinky Dinky Parlez Vous," "The Eighty-ninth Division Blues" and "The Infantry, the Infantry, With Dirt Behind Their Ears."

The first business meeting of the Eighty-ninth Division War Society under whose auspices the reunion was brought about, was opened by a welcome address lead by Maj. William Paul Pinkerton, Kansas City "circle woman." The subject of returning a party of Eighty-ninth Division Pilgrims to the battle fort was touched on in the meeting. Col. Conrad S. Babcock, commander of the 354th Infantry, was appointed chairman of a committee to frame a resolution for the project.

Messages from Major-General William Wright and Gen. Wood, Governor General of the Philippine Islands, were read.

Protestant memorial services were led by the Rev. Evan A. Edwards, former chaplain of the 140th Infantry. Father L. S. Tiernan, assisted by Father Thomas Kennedy of St. Louis, former Thirty-fifth Division chaplain, and Father William T. Kane of Chicago, former chaplain of the 11th Amphibious Brigade, conducted a solemn requiem high mass.

BUDGET SYSTEM

FOR CHANGES IN CONSTITUTION

RECOMMENDATIONS as to provisions of a new constitution for Missouri, made by the Committee on New Constitution of the Bar Association of St. Louis, after a prolonged study of the present Constitution and of proposals for changes, are:

The present Constitution is a good one and has served the State well. It is, therefore, not advisable to recast it as an entirety, but to make the revision
by way of specific amendments which can be separately voted upon by the people of the State.
The bill of rights should stand
practically unaltered.

Changes in the present taxation system of the State are desirable. The present State machinery in that respect should be superseded by a State tax commission, not composed of ex-office persons, but of qualified experts who shall give their entire time to the supervision and commissioner of education, to be revenue problems. The general control of assessments of property should be within the power of this commission. The Constitution should be so amended as to authorize the separate classification of intangible personal property for purposes of taxation, so that this class of property, which now, in the main, escapes taxation, can be effectually taxed. Existing limitations upon taxing power should not be eliminated, but may in special instances be wisely modified.

A State budget system, constitutionally protected, is needed.
The educational interests of the State should be constitutionally broadened and placed under the supervision of a well-paid
commissioner of education, to be appointed, rather than elected, and his qualifications should be defined.

The judicial system of the State should be simplified and united as a single court having appellate and trial divisions,

with full power to establish rules of practice and procedure which shall have the force of law. The Constitution should provide that the judges of all courts having general jurisdiction should be selected through the suffrage of the general election system. Your committee believes that when sustained by public opinion the best method
of choosing judges is appointment by the Governor with confirmation by the Senate, but your committee does not believe that this plan is a feasible one in our State.

Changes are needed in the regulation of the suffrage and elections of the State. The present provision conferring the right of suffrage upon persons of foreign birth who have declared their intention to become citizens should be eliminated.
The Constitution should also give power to the General Assembly to provide for the registration of voters anywhere in the State. Provision should be made to adapt the Constitution of Missouri to the Nineteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and to give full political rights to women.

The Constitution should contain a provision for a workmen's compensation law.

The Governor should be authorized to recommend the amendment of bills after original enactment, with provisions
for the suffrage of re-enactment
in the original or amended form.

present-day constitutional ideas and tendencies. It is reasonably certain that if at this time we should undertake a general recasting and reconstruction of our Constitution
we would not thereby secure a simpler, more flexible and generally sounder constitutional system. Notwithstanding this, your committee with a draft Constitution which in its general features would be no improvement upon our present one, and would be markedly inferior to because of its complexity and uncertain in import. For these reasons, the proposed constitution would almost certainly be rejected by the people and thus because attempting too much we would accomplish nothing and would moreover definitely delay the needed amendment of certain features of our Constitution.

Regarding taxation, the committee says:
"The most serious faults of our system have to do with the collection and expenditure of the revenue.
The revenue system from top to bottom is administered by elected officials and it has long been notorious that it has been very poorly administered. The Constitution provides

"Many of the advocates of the Constitutional convention appear to seek a complete recasting or at least a very general revision of our present Constitution. This idea is expressed in the statement that our present Constitution is old and out of date, and that we need a new Constitution that is modern and up to date. These statements seem to suggest that there is to be found somewhere a modern type of State Constitution that is essentially different from our Constitution and that is a marked improvement upon
it. We have examined all recently adopted State Constitutions, and also those which have lately undergone revision at the hands of a constitutional convention, together with the recently framed but rejected Constitutions of New York and Arkansas, and we find that these Constitutions do not differ essentially in general character and type from the Constitutions now generally in force in other states, outside of New England.

"In considering the wisdom and advisability of the general reconstruction or recasting of our present State Constitution, it must be borne in mind that our existing Constitution is the outcome of the experiences of our people. It is not an experimental or theoretical document, but is a body of organic law under which our State Government has been actually conducted for nearly half a century. Its practical value is increased by reason of the fact that its more important provisions have undergone judicial construction, and in this way their meaning and application have been conform to its requirements. A study of recent constitutional tendencies, and of recently adopted and revised State Constitutions, which give expression to those tendencies, has increased our respect for our present Missouri Constitution as essentially a sound and sane chart of government."

"The Bill of Rights, as the fundamental protection of the people against injustice and tyranny, should stand unaltered. The public, accustomed through many years to the benefits of these safeguards, scarcely understands the extent to which its safety and prosperity are dependent upon these provisions.

Objections to Recasting.
"We are prepared to concede that the ideal of perfectionists and idealists are often of great value and that their suggestions should be given respectful consideration. But we cannot follow them when their theories conflict with the facts of experience and the dictates of common sense.

FOR STATE FAVORED

Amendment, Rather Than Recasting, of Organic Law, Recommended—Judicial Unification.

Important changes in the taxation system of Missouri are recommended by the Committee on New Constitution of the Bar Association of St.
Louis, which has completed its recommendations to the people of the State and the members of the coming constitutional convention.

The Bar Association, at its meeting at the University Club last night, voted to approve the committee's report, and to retain the committee for further service.

The committee, which has made a study of the present Constitution and of proposals for a new or amended Constitution consists of Charles P.
Williams, chairman; Clifford B. Allen, Charles W. Bates, Walter D.
Cojes, Edward C. Elliot, E. Earl Griffin and Charles S. Reber.

The committee recommends that the Constitution be amended rather than recast as an entirety, and that the present bill of rights be preserved. The chief changes recommended as to taxation are abandonment of the present theoretical value tax on intangible personal property, to be replaced by special or indirect taxes on such property; and the creation of a State tax commission of experts, to give their entire time to the supervision and administration of taxation.

Urges a State Budget System.
Besides the recommendation as to taxation, the committee urges a State budget system, reorganization of the Department of Education, unifying the judicial system, removal of the suffrage from aliens not fully naturalized; full political rights for women, and a provision for a workmen's compensation law.

As to the question whether a Constitutional convention is needed, the committee says:
"Many of the advocates of the Constitutional convention appear to seek a complete recasting or at least
a very general revision of our present Constitution. This idea is expressed in the statement that our

Bar Committee's Proposals
for Changes in Constitution

RECOMMENDATIONS as to provisions of a new constitution for Missouri, made by the Committee on New Constitution of the Bar Association of St. Louis, after a prolonged study of the present Constitution and of proposals for changes, are:

The present Constitution is a good one and has served the State well. It is, therefore, not advisable to recast it as an entirety, but to make the revision
by way of specific amendments
which can be separately voted
upon by the people of the State.
The bill of rights should stand
practically unaltered.

Changes in the present taxation system of the State are desirable. The present State machinery in that respect should be superseded by a State tax commission, not composed of ex-
office persons, but of qualified experts who shall give their entire time to the supervision and commissioner of education, to be
revenue problems. The general control of assessments of
property should be within the power of this commission. The Constitution should be so amended as to authorize the separate classification of intangible personal property for purposes of taxation, so that this class of property, which now, in the
main, escapes taxation, can be effectually taxed. Existing limitations upon taxing power
should not be eliminated, but may in special instances be wisely modified.

A State budget system, constitutionally protected, is needed.
The educational interests of
the State should be constitutionally broadened and placed under the supervision of a well-paid
commissioner of education, to be appointed, rather than elected,
and his qualifications should be defined.

The judicial system of the State should be simplified and
united as a single court having

appellate and trial divisions,
with full power to establish
rules of practice and procedure
which shall have the force of
law. The Constitution should provide that the judges of all
courts having general jurisdiction should be selected through
the suffrage of the general election system. Your committee believes that when sustained by public opinion the best method
of choosing judges is appointment by the Governor with confirmation by the Senate, but
your committee does not believe that this plan is a feasible one
in our State.

Changes are needed in the regulation of the suffrage and elections of the State. The
present provision conferring the right of suffrage upon persons
of foreign birth who have declared their intention to become citizens should be eliminated.
The Constitution should also give power to the General Assembly to provide for the registration of voters anywhere in the State. Provision should be made to adapt the Constitution
of Missouri to the Nineteenth Amendment to the Constitution
of the United States, and to give full political rights to women.

The Constitution should contain a provision for a workmen's compensation law.

The Governor should be authorized to recommend the
amendment of bills after original enactment, with provisions
for the suffrage of re-enactment
in the original or amended form.

we would not thereby secure a sim-

Constitution that is modern and up

somewhere a modern type of State

that is a marked improvement upon
it. We have examined all recently

has been actually conducted for

value is increased by reason of the fact that its more important provi-

meaning and application have been

When the case of Arthur C. Burch,

OIL FIELD STRIKERS TO VOTE ON RESUMING WORK AT ONCE

District Council of California Unions Unanimously Recommends Return for Meg.

By the Associated Press. BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Nov. 1.—By unanimous vote the District Council of the California Oil Field Workers, composed of a representative of each local union on strike, this morning decided to recommend to the strikers that they return to work at once. This recommendation will be put to a vote tomorrow night and Thursday night by all striking locals.

W. J. Yarrow, adviser for the unions, declared the reason for the council's action was the receipt of a telegram yesterday from Secretary of Labor Davis, who requested that the strike be called off "without prejudice." "We always heed the slightest request of the Government," Yarrow said.

ARKANSAS BUSINESS MAN HELD UNDER AVIATION ORDINANCE

James Cox Charged With Violating Dallas Statute in Distributing Circulars.

By the Associated Press. DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 1.—James Cox, president of the Business Men's League of Eldorado, Ark., is held here under bond pending hearing at Municipal Court on a charge of violating the city aviation ordinance. Saturday, he flew over the city in an airplane, piloted by W. F. Shaffer, dropping circulars advertising Eldorado and the Chamber of Commerce and other business leagues of that place. Being unfamiliar with local aviation traffic regulations, however, it is alleged he sailed under the required 3000 feet altitude over the business district and was soon afterward taken into custody by a member of the Police Air Patrol Squadron.

He was admitted to bail and his case set for trial this afternoon. It was not reached on the docket, however, and went over until tomorrow.

Cox left El Dorado early Saturday and said his itinerary had included towns between here and Shreveport, La.

LOYD GEORGE AGAIN TRIUMPHS IN HOUSE VOTE AFTER SPEECH IN IRELAND

Mandate to Continue Negotiations Given to Premier by Ten to One Ballot—Threatens Return of Guerrilla War.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Government obtained its expected mandate from the House of Commons last night to proceed with the Irish negotiations. The Unionist motion, censuring the Government for initiating the Irish negotiations was voted down 439 to 43.

The Premier also achieved another of his oratorical victories before an expectant audience. So far as the movement of protest was designed to draw information as to the proceedings of the conference, it failed; the Premier gave no information as to what has been decided, or is being discussed, regarding De Valera's claim to independence and the reluctance of the country to incur greater taxation and ask more young men to risk their lives. He asserted the Government's resolve to refuse concessions which would mean the empire, but to explore all paths to an honorable peace, and emphasized the fact that any agreement must be ratified by Parliament.

One piece of information the Premier did give. It was that unless something happens within a few days, presumably in the conference, to solve the unsettled status of Ireland.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins. It is the skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place. Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness. You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

land's two Governments, steps would be taken to give the Ulster Parliament the powers necessary to make it a real Government.

Lloyd George declared that the time to question the negotiations was when the first proposal was made to the Sinn Fein by public correspondence last July. Most of his speech was devoted to holding before the Commons the prospect of a renewal of guerrilla warfare if the conference broke down.

World Strengthened First Forces. He declared the first thing the Government would have to do would be to ask the House to strengthen the crown forces, but pointed out the cost of increased warfare and reluctance of the country to incur greater taxation and ask more young men to risk their lives. He asserted the Government's resolve to refuse concessions which would mean the empire, but to explore all paths to an honorable peace, and emphasized the fact that any agreement must be ratified by Parliament.

The motion was proposed by Col. John Greston, Unionist, and seconded by Rupert S. Gwynne. No conspicuous leaders spoke in its support. Those who most strongly advocated the policy of the motion laid much stress on their protests against negotiating with men who had denied allegiance to the crown.

Arthur Henderson, in behalf of the Laborites, explained that that party favored the negotiations, although opposing what he termed the previous policy of repression and retaliation.

Former Premier Asquith supported the motion but deprecated the suggestion that renewal of the war was the only alternative if the conference failed. This point of view finds adherence among a section of the Irish experts, who believe that a breakdown of the conference might be followed by a continuance of the true pending further efforts of diplomacy.

Parliament Must Agree. "No compact can come into effect without the authority of Parliament," said Lloyd George. "Every detail will be submitted to Parliament. The agreement, if there be an agreement, will have to be in the form of an act of Parliament." It is suggested that the Government ought to come to the House and say: "We want your sanction for this or that proposal?" (Cries of "Why not?")

"No negotiations could possibly be conducted like that. There must be some latitude. There are certain basic principles, but these have been declared to the House repeatedly." (Cries of "What are they?")

"They have been declared time after time, and we stand by them. We have declared to Parliament repeatedly that the Government are prepared to meet any representative of the Irish people who could deliver the goods. I am prepared to meet anyone who can make a good bargain on behalf of the population of Ireland."

The time to challenge the conference, said the Prime Minister, was when his letter was written in July in response to the King's gracious speech at Belfast; if the same motion had been put down, with a demand from 40 or 50 members for discussion, he would have wasted no time in giving them an opportunity.

"I am now invited," he went on, "to state what the opinions of the Government are in the middle of a conference on the subjects discussed there. There are two kinds of conferences, the open conference, at which no business is ever transacted, though it encourages the faithful, and the conference of closed doors, which is the only conference at which you can do business. There is the conference of partial disclosure, which has all the vices and none of the virtues of the other two, and is the way to disaster."

"Without caring one iota myself, the House of Commons must either trust its Ministers or replace them. (Loud cheers.) I want to know, my colleagues, I want to know whether you want us to try to make peace. If you do not, there will be one glad man who will go to his Sovereign and say: 'I hand in my portfolio.' (Cheers.)

"If we discuss the matter in this House there will be no conference."

"The only issue is whether the House will say drop these negotiations; crush the rebellion first, then deal with Ireland as seems just in the eyes of Parliament."

Discussing guerrilla warfare, the Premier said that all knew what gigantic forces had to be put into Africa. One of the evils of guerrilla warfare was that the forces were dispersed and there was not the same control or discipline. Unless it was absolutely necessary for the honor and security of the country, it was not the time to impose great additional burdens upon the taxpayer and invite the young men once more to risk their lives. (Cheers from the Laborites.)

Items of Interest

During the Anniversary

If you would like to come in contact with a bunch of highly interesting individuals, you ought to watch the sale crowds in a department store. You'll see the woman who knows what she wants and where to get it; the one who intends to buy if she finds something which strikes her fancy; and the eager bargain hunter.

A Rosy Matron

—the sort of a woman who is at once the comforter and playmate of her joyous brood, was on the Second Floor yesterday, looking at woolen goods. She wanted a light-weight material for the children's school dresses, and a comfortable, yet pretty dress, for her own wear about the house. She bought wool flannel at a yard $1.69.

A Young Girl

—smartly boyish from the square toed brogues on her feet to the plain little English sports hat atop her bobbed hair, caught up the gayest of the gay near silk fringed scarfs. She knew that the same kind of scarf sold for $5.00 as a rule, and chose one at $2.95.

A Bride-to-Be

—surely only a bride-to-be could exhibit such deep absorption in mere silk—hesitated between innumerable butterfly colors in shimmering Fan-Tan silk. She had heard that it laundered well, and didn't tear easily, so she took several yards each of pink, pale blue and orchid for lingerie and negligees. Yard, $1.59.

A Round-Faced Man

—with a twinkle in his eyes and good-natured determination stamped all over him, was looking for small rugs. "The kids have just about ruined the floors through the doorways, and th' mother says we've got to cover 'em before they are worn any worse," he explained. He bought six, each $2.95.

The Woman Who Knows

—what is newest, and most convenient, and in best taste, was smiling her pleasure over a long-handled Psyche mirror in a dull Tiffany gold finish. She always had felt the need of a final glance at her back hair before she left the house, she remarked, and this was just the thing to be left on the hall table.

And on the Fourth Floor

8500 pairs of cable net curtains were on sale. Through gathered, purchased, and went their ways rejoicing. They hadn't been able to get these imported curtains with the cluny and Hankle edges because of the shortage of good lace. But in the sale they bought them at prices much less than ordinary Nottinghams. Pair $2.95 to $6.95.

Zane Grey's New Story

The Call of the Cañon is a romance of the new West—a story of adventure and mystery, of conflict between the bigness of Arizona and the jazz of New York.

It is the story of a society girl and her war-hero lover—a gassed and shell-shocked soldier who finds health and strength and a new vision of happiness in the cañon country.

Told in Mr. Grey's ever-fascinating manner, one thrill follows another in the adventures of the tenderfoot girl, new to the tang of the outdoors, losing and finding her love amid the mystery of the colorful cañon.

Zane Grey, master teller of Western stories, has never written a better novel than The Call of the Cañon. It is his first serial in THE HOME JOURNAL, and it will be published in four generous installments. The first is in the big November issue—out today.

Don't miss it!

Jazz Must Go

Listen to the gibberish of jazz:

"Do you park?" asked the youth, and he laid his cheek firmly against hers as they toddled. She was a snappy dame, who rolled her own and shimmied a mean eyelash. He was a hair-netter, a necker, the hero of many a petting party, and he could sling a mean line—no ham would be the wife for him.

What does it all mean? It is the slang of ultra-modern youth—the accompaniment of indecency in dress, in talk, in behavior.

We have given our young folks freedom; we are seeing it fail as they dance hellward by the jazz route. Now it is time to wake up—to get Back to Pre-War Morals.

In the November issue of THE HOME JOURNAL is the first of a series of articles for mothers and fathers who are concerned about the future of their sons and daughters.

Are you?

Book of Books

A really great series of articles on the Bible has been written for THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL by Professor William Lyon Phelps, of Yale. It is not a religious series. It is for all men and all women of all faiths and all creeds. Competent judges proclaim that this is the most interesting and illuminating series that has ever been written on the Bible.

The need for these articles is very great, for there can be no greater benefit in our present-day civilization than a knowledge of and a love for the Bible.

No one who knows the Bible and learns how to read it for the miracles of inspiration, beauty and wisdom it contains will remain uneducated. No one to whom the Bible is a closed book is educated. The first of these splendid articles, entitled "Human Nature in the Bible," is in the November issue of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

Dollar Savers

Fifteen cents invested in the November issue of THE HOME JOURNAL may save you a hundred dollars or more.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson's advice as to Fall Colds, and another article on the children's First Year in School, may save you a big doctor's bill.

The ten fashion pages, with new hats and wraps and suits and frocks and children's clothes, may save you money in dressing your family this winter.

There are many early Christmas-gift ideas—Ukrainian and Bohemian tablecloths; appliqué, handmade bags, neckwear and towels in the needlework department; fascinating china painting—all things that you can make and all dollar savers on the Christmas list.

How to Get Married—and Eat—on $25 a Week, and other household articles, will show you how to save money in your kitchen.

HARDING PROCLAIMS DAY OF THANKSGIVING

People Urged to Offer Thanks for Favoring National Fortunes and to Pray for Guidance.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—President Harding issued a proclamation last night designating Thursday, Nov. 24, as a day of thanksgiving, devotion and prayer, and urging the people to give thanks "for all that has been rendered unto them," and to pray "for a continuance of the divine fortune which has been showered so generously upon this nation."

The proclamation follows:
"A Proclamation.
"That season has come when, alike in pursuance of a devout people's time-honored custom and in grateful recognition of favoring national fortunes, it is proper that the President should summon the nation to a day of devotion, of thanksgiving for blessings bestowed and of prayer for guidance in modes of life that may deserve continuance of divine favor."

"Foremost among our blessings is the return of peace, and the approach to normal ways again. The year has brought us again into relations of amity with all nations after a long period of struggle and turbulence. In thankfulness, therefore, we may well unite in the hope that Providence will vouchsafe approval to the things we have done, the aims which have guided us, the aspirations which have inspired us. We shall be prospered as we shall deserve prosperity, seeking not alone for the material things but for those of the spirit as well; earnestly trying to help others, asking, before all else the privilege of service. As we render thanks anew for the exaltation which came to us, we may fittingly petition that moderation and wisdom shall be granted to rest upon all who are in authority in the tasks they must discharge. Their hands will be steadied, their purposes strengthened, in answer to our prayers."

"Ours has been a favored nation in the bounty which God has bestowed upon it. The great trial of humanity, though indeed we bore our part as well as we were able, left us comparatively little scarred. It is for us to recognize that we have been thus favored, and when we gather at our altars to offer up thanks we will do well to pledge, in humility and all sincerity, our purpose to prove deserving. We have been raised up and preserved in national power and consequence as part of a plan whose wisdom we cannot question. This believing, we can do no less than hold our nation the willing instrument of the providence which has so wonderfully favored us. Opportunity for very great service awaits us if we shall prove equal to it. Let our prayers be raised for direction in the right paths. Under God, our responsibility is great; to our own first, to all men afterward; to all mankind in God's own justice."

"Now, therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, President of the United States, hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-fourth day of November, to be observed by the people as a day of thanksgiving, devotion and prayer; urging that at their hearthside and in their prayers, they will give thanks for all that has been rendered unto them, and will pray for a continuance of the divine fortune which has been showered so generously upon this nation."

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the seal of the United States of America."

"Done at the capital of the United States, this 31st day of October, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and forty-sixth."

"WARREN G. HARDING,
"By the President:
"Charles E. Hughes, Secretary of State."

MAN AND WOMAN ASPHYXIATED

By the Associated Press.
PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 1.—George Lowry, 29, and Hazel Burhans, 27, last night were found dead in their home here, gas escaping from two jets and all openings of the house closed.

Search of Lowry's effects by police revealed that his home is at Manitou, Ill., and that he apparently had wealthy parents. Police said they believed the couple had been married and divorced.

F. H. Flee, Gum Manufacturer, Dies.
By the Associated Press.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 1.—Frank H. Flee, Philadelphia, millionaire chewing gum manufacturer, died suddenly last night of apoplexy at his country estate at Thomasville. He was 65 years of age.

Instead, we have marked them very close to actual wholesale cost, content with a small profit, believing that in this way we can sell the entire lot in ONE DAY. We consider the good will of those who share in the marvelous values offered worth more to us than the extra profits we would get from a larger price.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR MILK FUND DANCE

Program of Elks' Club Will Include Several Acts Contributed by Local Theaters.

Tickets for the informal dance and entertainment to be given Friday evening for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund at the Elks' Club, 3519 Lindell boulevard, may be obtained at the cigar stands of the Statler, Jefferson and Planters Hotels, or from Jules Bertero, secretary of the Elks' Club. The price is 11 each. An almost universal willingness of theater managers and theatrical talent to respond to the call of the needy babies is being shown. Virtually every theater in the city has already proffered aid and the program promises to be an enjoyable affair. In addition to the entertainment features, there will be a dance in the main auditorium, where Max Goldman's orchestra will play.

On the program will be Miss Dorothy Jordan, formerly of the Chicago Grand Opera company, and her accompanist, Albert Vernon, who are appearing at the Orpheum Theater this week. Norton and Nicholson, also on the current Orpheum bill, in a diverting sketch, have volunteered their assistance, and others who will appear through the courtesy of E. J. Sullivan, manager of the Orpheum Theater, are: Herbert Williams and Edda Wolfus, Mabel Burke and Helen Bell Rush, the Cavana Duo, the Wonder Girl, Joe Browning, and Marion Harris, noted phonograph-record maker, accompanied by Lou Handman. Other theaters whose talent will participate in the evening's entertainment are: American, Shubert-Jefferson, Columbia, Grand Opera House, Rialto, Empress, Missouri and Gayety.

TWO ILLINOIS BREWERIES ARE CLOSED TEMPORARILY

Plants at Mascoutah and New Athens Alleged to Have Been Making and Selling Beer.

A temporary restraining order was served on officers of the Mascoutah Products Co., at Mascoutah, Ill., and the Probst Products Co., at New Athens, Ill., yesterday, prohibiting them from operating their malt beverage plants, and giving them to appear in the Federal Court and show cause why the restraining order should not be made an injunction as provided in the prohibition enforcement law.

The restraining orders were issued yesterday by Judge English in the Federal Court at East St. Louis at the request of the United States District Attorney on information furnished by Prohibition Enforcement Officer M. T. Higgins. The date for a hearing on the restraining order has not been set.

Higgins alleged that both plants have operated in violation of the prohibition laws, and have been making and selling beer in excess of the alcoholic content permitted under the Volstead act.

SUIT SETTLED AFTER 7 YEARS

Toledo, St. Louis & Western Bond Issue Contest Is Adjusted.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Settlement of a suit over the legality of $11,127,000 worth of bonds issued in 1907 by the Toledo, St. Louis & Western Railroad, pending in the United States Court at Toledo, O., seven years, was announced today by J. E. Backs, chairman of the Stockholders' Protective Committee. Details of the settlement were not made public.

The bonds were given in payment for the controlling interest in the Chicago & Alton Railroad. It was held they were illegal because they were used to purchase controlling stock in a competing road. It was also charged that fraud was practiced in the transaction.

The Toledo, St. Louis & Western went into the hands of receivers at the application of creditors on May 24, 1914.

QUICK RELIEF FROM SORE THROAT

PEOPLE nowadays recognize that a sore throat is a danger spot, as the inflamed tissues form an ideal soil for germs to multiply.

With germs it is impossible to keep a sore throat under anything like efficient treatment. With Formamin, whether you are at work, or in crowded car, shop, theatre or church, you can dissolve, mix and then, one of these pleasant, powerful antiseptic tablets in your mouth.

An effective antiseptic is released and, carried by the saliva, continuously bathes the tissues, checks germ growth and soothes the throat, possibly preventing laryngitis, tonsillitis, etc. Relieves hoarseness. Helpful for singers, actors, smokers, speakers, lecturers, etc. Children like them. 60c at all drug stores.

SWITCH TRACK, ONCE OPPOSED, IS BUILT

Switch Across Duncan Avenue Formerly Objected to Because of Proximity of School.

The Winsh Railroad now has a switch across Duncan avenue, between Taylor and Newstead avenues, into the plant of the Tulley Implement Co., which was successfully opposed two years ago by the Board of Education and residents on the ground that its proximity to the William Stix School made it dangerous. It was laid Saturday and Sunday under a permit obtained from the Board of Public Service with the approval of Director of Public Utilities Hooks. Residents knew nothing of it until work was begun. The Board of Education knew nothing about it until residents notified R. M. Milligan, Commissioner of School Buildings. Robert Burkham, attorney for the board, is making an inquiry. The application for the petition was filed Sept. 12. It was referred to Director Hooks, who approved it, and the permit was issued Sept. 20. Under the zoning law the district is classed as industrial and it is the usual practice to issue switch permits in industrial districts. When the application was pending nothing was said about the proximity of the school or about the former opposition to a switch there.

Commissioner Milligan said today the switch was "put over" without the knowledge of the board, members of which did not even know that an application had been filed. He said he went out there as soon as residents informed him what was going on, but was unable to do anything more than refer it to Burkham.

SICK TO GET BEER AT ONCE

Stocks in Brewers' Warehouses to Be Made Available Immediately.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Beer for the sick will be made available immediately from stocks on hand in brewers' warehouses, it was said last night at the Treasury.

Discussing the question of whether beer manufactured before the issuance of the new regulations could be used for medical purposes, officials expressed the opinion that there was nothing to prevent its immediate sale as soon as the necessary permits were obtained.

$600,000,000 SUBSCRIBED FOR NEW TREASURY ISSUES

Heavy Bidding for Certificates Taken to Indicate Improvement in Money Market.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—More than $600,000,000 has been received in subscriptions for the Treasury's recent offering of 4½ per cent and 4½ per cent certificates of indebtedness, of which a total of about $200,000,000 was offered, according to preliminary reports, officials said last night.

The heavy subscription to these certificates, bearing less than 5 per cent interest, for the first time in about a year and one-half, was taken by officials to indicate a considerable easing in the money market and a change in conditions warranting the expectation of improvement.

Decline in interest rates generally, it was said, probably would be followed by further reductions in Federal Reserve discount rates, particularly in view of the high gold reserve held by those banks.

MAYOR PETITIONS FOR 14TH STREET VIADUCT

State Service Commission Asked to Order Replacing of Structure Wrecked 2 Years Ago.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 1.—Mayor Kiel, in a petition filed by City Counselor Caulfield, today asked the Missouri Public Service Commission to require the construction of a new viaduct on Fourteenth street between Poplar and Gratiot streets. This viaduct has been out of use for nearly two years, due to a collapse of one section when a derailed train, passing beneath, brushed one of the piers. The viaduct spans 38 tracks of railroad tracks, 19 of which belong to the Terminal Railroad Association and 19 to the Missouri Pacific in what is known as the Mill Creek Valley.

Defendants Named in Petition. In the Mayor's petition parties defendant are named as follows: Missouri Pacific Railroad Co., Terminal Railroad Association, Rolla Wells, receiver of the United Railways Co., United Railways Co., Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Kinloch Telephone Co., United Electric Light and Power Co., Laclede Gas Light Co., and the City of St. Louis.

The petition asks the commission to notify all of the defendants to make such arrangements as the conduct of their business may require, in preparation for the construction, which the Mayor maintains must be on a much larger scale than formerly, to meet the increased demands of north and south traffic in St. Louis. A different arrangement as to piers must be made, also, it is pointed out, because insufficient clearance now exists between the piers and tracks, and there is constant danger that a derailed train will brush the supports.

The Mayor calls attention to the hardships put upon the city through inability to use the viaduct, it being necessary for all traffic that naturally would use it, to detour eastward to Twelfth street or west to Eighteenth street. This is an especial hardship where the fire department is answering alarms or the city ambulances are responding to calls. The old viaduct was constructed in 1875 and is about 1000 feet in length.

Hearings on Cost Asked For. The commission is asked to hold hearings on the question, pass upon proposed plans for a new viaduct, order its construction at joint cost of the defendants and fix the proportionate share of that cost which each shall bear. Under the rules of the commission no date for hearing will be set for 10 days, that period being allowed for all parties to consider the matter before any order is made.

GEN. MARCH TO BE RETIRED. TODAY AT HIS OWN REQUEST

Former Chief of Staff, Now in Europe, Has Served More Than 30 Years.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Major-General Peyton C. March, formerly Chief of Staff, who has been on leave of absence in Europe since July 1, will, at his own request, be retired today. The request for retirement was made some time ago after more than 30 years' service.

Announcement was made yesterday of the promotion to fill the vacancy thus caused in the grade of Major-General of Brigadier-General Harry C. Hale, now commanding the Second Brigade of the American forces in Germany, who will be ordered to duty in the United States. Col. Joseph C. Castner, assigned to the Eighteenth Division of Organized Reserves of Richmond, Va., has been selected to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Brigadier-General Hale.

During the war Gen. Hale commanded the Eighty-fourth Division and after the armistice was assigned to the command of the Twenty-sixth Division. He later was given charge of Camp Dix, N. J.

Col. Castner commanded the Thirtieth Infantry, Third Division, in the United States and France and during the St. Mihiel and Argonne offensives commanded the Ninth Infantry Brigade of the Fifth Division. Secretary Weeks made public today a letter praising the services of Gen. March and emphasizing the accomplishments of the General as Chief of Staff during the war.

$8000 RAISED AT BENEFIT FOR CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

Affair at M. A. A. With Human Bridge Game Devised to Have Been Success in All Respects.

Eight thousand dollars was raised for the Children's Hospital at the benefit given last Wednesday night at the Missouri Athletic Club by the auxiliary board of the hospital. It was announced this morning. This is above all expenses, which were heavy, a hot supper having been served to all who attended the benefit without extra charge. The entry for the bridge tournament was also included in the ticket of admission.

The benefit is declared to have been the most successful ever given for the hospital and also the most satisfactory from the entertainment viewpoint. As the human bridge game, in which many of the debutantes of the season were the living cards, was a distinct novelty. The bridge tournament, which was conducted by Charles McD. Fallon of the Knickerbocker Whist Club of New York City, attracted much attention, and more than 300 players entered it. The winning team comprised representatives of the Elks Club and the University Club.

FOCH SAYS GREAT HONOR OF HIS LIFE WAS SHARE IN GUIDING U. S. FORCES

Marshal of France, Addressing American Legion Through Interpreter, Says He Rejoices to Again Live Over Glories of 1918.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 1.—In an address today before the American Legion convention, Marshal Foch said through an interpreter: "Officers, noncommissioned officers and soldiers of the great American army: "My dear comrades of the American Legion: "I cannot tell you how great is my satisfaction at finding myself among you, my dear comrades of 1918, in live again our glorious memories. Three years ago, on the first of November, 1918, the entire American army in France took up vigorously the pursuit of the defeated enemy and did not halt until the German surrender. "Hour of glory for the American army, a proper culmination for a military effort, prodigious alike in its intensity as in its rapidity! One and all, you have had your share in it. You may well be proud! In responding to the call to arms of your Government, in equipping, training and organizing yourselves as rapidly as possible, you had in view only the purpose to take your place as soon as possible in the line of battle. "In numbers: Eighteen months after the declaration of war by the United States on Germany, the American army had passed from effective of 95,000 officers and 125,000 men to 180,000 officers and 3,500,000 men. "Efforts of organization: If, in the month of March, you had in France but six divisions, six months later you had 41, of which 31 engaged in battle. "Speaks of Active Training: "Effort in instruction: In order to have officers, noncommissioned officers and men rapidly trained, you multiplied in America, as in France, your schools and camps, which became centers of prodigious activity. "In order to arm you and camp you, the American manufacturer worked without respite and supplied all your needs. "Admirable effort also in transportation. You swept away every obstacle which interfered with bringing your units from the centers of instruction to the ports of embarkation. "In France, you improved the ports of debarkation, created new installations, increased the traffic of the railroad system by work of all kinds and multiplied your storehouses and hospitals. "Your shipyards were organized for intensive production in such a way that when the war ended you utilized for your ocean transportation almost 4,000,000 of marine tonnage, instead of 84,000 available at the beginning of the war. "And meanwhile your splendid war fleet, thanks to its vigilance and its fine military qualities, protected with an efficiency to which I am happy to pay tribute here, the transportation of your troops and material. "A prodigious effort on the part of your entire nation's intelligence, will power and energy! A prodigious effort which has filled your associates with admiration and gratitude, and confounded your enemy. "Spirit Shown On Battlefields. "This splendid spirit of an entire nation we find again on the battlefields of France, where it was blazoned in the admirable virtues of bravery and heroism. "It was the spirit of the second and third American army divisions which, one month later took part in the battle of the Marne and distinguished themselves immediately in the operations around Chateau Thierry and in Belleau Wood. Again it was the spirit of those five divisions which, on the 18th of July, participated in the victorious counter offensive of the Tenth and Sixth French armies between the Aisne and the Marne and contributed in great measure to that victory. "Finally, it was that spirit which animated all the American army on the 24th of September, 1918, Gen. Pershing formed your splendid units under his own direct command. "On the 12th of September, 1918, the First American Army delivered its first battle on the soil of France. It dislodged the enemy from the St. Mihiel salient, where he had entrenched himself for nearly four years, threw him back beyond the foot of the hills of the Meuse. From the very first the American army entered into glory. How many further laurels was it yet to win! "Argonne Next to Be Faced. "The St. Mihiel operation was nearly ended when the American army attacked on a new front. On the 25th of September it was engaged on the right wing of the vast allied offensive. The point of direction assigned to it was Meuzieres, on the Meuse. "Deployed from the left bank of the Meuse to the eastern confines of Champagne, it had three army

Mundy was a farm hand employed by the child's father.

WATSON ASKED TO PROVE CHARGES OF HANGINGS

Senate Committee to Investigate Georgian's Statements Concerning Executions of Soldiers.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Investigation by a special committee into charges by Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, that American soldiers in France were hanged without court-martial or other trial, was ordered today by the President of the Senate and Senator Watson will be invited before it to produce proof. Senator Watson produced a small photograph of an alleged hanging and insisted that his charges were true. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, said he had examined the photograph and had been told by two former service men that the charges were true, but that he was "unwilling to proceed on such evidence."

Chairman Wadsworth of the Military Committee, invited the Georgia Senator to appear before his committee to produce evidence in support of his charges.

"How many Senators know," Senator Watson had asked, "that a private soldier was frequently shot by his officers because of some complaint against officers' insolence? And that they had gallows upon which men were hanged, day after day, without court-martial or any other form of trial? I had and have the photograph of one of the gallows, upon which 21 white boys had already been executed at sunrise when the photograph was taken and there were others waiting in the camp jails to be hanged morning after morning."

Senator Wadsworth declared that this charge could not be lightly brushed aside, nor "could be excused on grounds of excitability" in debate. He demanded that Senator Watson produce the proof.

Senator Watson replied that he represented the "demand" and would "tell him foot to foot and shoulder to shoulder" that he was the equal of any Senator, and assumed full responsibility for his charges. He said he would refuse to go before any committee with his evidence or to produce his witnesses "unless they were guaranteed immunity."

Records Show Nine Executions.
Senator New, Republican, Indiana, presented an official statement from the Judge Advocate-General of the army showing that of a total of 23 sentences of death imposed in the American Expeditionary Forces, only nine were actually carried out.

The statement as presented showed that, of the nine executions seven were for statutory crimes against women, one for murder, and one on a combined charge of murder and a statutory crime. Twelve of the remaining 19 were modified.

Senator New said, and the others were disapproved. Senator Watson followed with charges that men were left to die by the road on occasions and that food was given to the French when the American soldiers were starving.

the name of the Argonne. "On the 16th of October, this great task finished, it joined hands with the Fourth French Army in the defile of Grand Pre.

"In consequence of this, the enemy's resistance was severely shaken; the moment had arrived to give him the final blow."

Anniversary of Buzancy.
"On the 1st of November," just three years ago today, the First American Army again attacked and, in a splendid advance, reached Buzancy, penetrating the German line for more than 10 kilometers. "The enemy, this time, retired definitely; the Stars and Stripes at once took up the pursuit and, six days later, floated victoriously over the reconquered Meuse.

"After St. Mihiel, after the Argonne, the American banners now bore the name of Meuse. In a few months you had taken 45,000 prisoners and 1400 cannon from the enemy.

"Glory to the First American Army, glory also to those of your divisions which, distributed among the French and British armies, contributed in great measure to the final success, whether with the Fifth French Army to the northwest of Rheims or with the Fourth French Army, in which they carried, in magnificent assault, the strong positions of Orville, or again, with the British armies for the capture of the famous Hindenburg line, or with the group of armies of Flanders, pursuing the enemy upon the road to Brussels.

"During this time your Second Army impatiently awaited to attack in its turn in the direction of Metz, which already was stretching her arms to us for deliverance; but, harassed and defeated, the enemy laid down his arms.

Final Hour Is Compensation.
"A solemn hour, which compensated all the sacrifices freely consented for the cause of right.

"It is you who have made these sacrifices. More than 75,000 of your countrymen were buried in the soil of France. May they rest in peace. Your French brothers in arms watch over them.

"Glory to you who survive them and who enjoy victorious peace. You may well be proud of your past exploits.

"Your country had asked of you to lay low a redoubtable enemy. You have placed him at your mercy and, after having assured every guarantee for the liberty of our peoples, you have imposed upon him the peace which our Governments have dictated. Has not your task been completely fulfilled?

"As for me, the great honor of my life will be to have guided along the road to victory the American army of 1918, which was a real grand army, beginning with its command-

When Listerine meets Halitosis

LISTERINE is a household word. Everyone knows this standard safe antiseptic.

Halitosis isn't a household word. But unfortunately it is only too often a household affliction. Perhaps you don't know what the word means. It is the medical term for unpleasant breath.

If anyone in your household is troubled with halitosis you know it, but he or she may not. If it is serious and apparently chronic you should consult a dentist or physician—the cause lies deep.

But many kinds of halitosis can be well taken care of by Listerine. Insist on everyone at home using it regularly; it is a safeguard against the more usual forms.

if it's kidney backache, you'll soon get over it and the headaches, dizziness, tired feelings and bladder troubles will go, too. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These St. Louis Folks Found Relief:

A. Gressenger, Paper-hanger, 4550 Easton Av., says:

"My trade as a paper hanger is very trying on my back and kidneys. My kidneys became weak and sore, and sometimes I could hardly straighten up and it was very difficult for me to get on a step ladder to hang a piece of paper. The trouble was followed by an irregular action of my kidneys. A fellow-worker told me to get Doan's Kidney Pills, for he was sure they would help me. I got a couple boxes and they cured me up all right. I keep Doan's on hand and use them once in awhile to keep my kidneys in good condition."

Mrs. David Englehardt, 3933 Lee Av., says:

"I am always ready to speak a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills. My back was sore and stiff and I could hardly do my housework. It seemed like lightning bolts all through my back. But it was Doan's Kidney Pills that brought me out all right, and from that day to this I have always praised them, for they do what is claimed for them. Whenever I get the least sign of any of my old trouble I take a few Doan's Kidney Pills and they fix me up again with the same good results."

Simon Fox, 1421 S. Broadway, says:

"The first time I felt any pain in my back was when I was digging a ditch. I bent over and a pain took me in my left kidney, and I couldn't straighten up for a few minutes. It almost took my breath away. I went into a drug store and they gave me Doan's Kidney Pills, and I started to take them. I used the one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and after that I never had a pain in my back or kidneys."

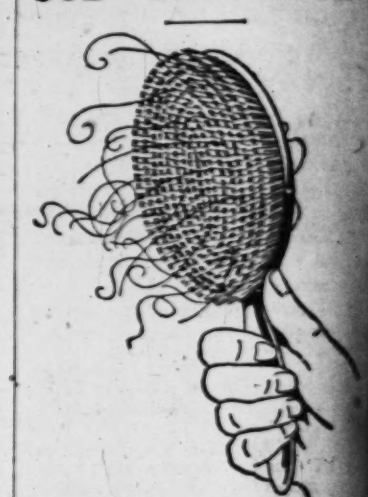

Mrs. J. Hales, 4119 Osborn Av., says:

"Several months ago when I was washing, I caught cold, and it settled in my kidneys and it became disordered. My back was so sore that I could hardly bend over at all, and when I did, it was difficult for me to straighten again. I also had dizzy headaches. A member of my family had also used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results, and so I had some in the house I started to take them. Doan's soon rid me of the trouble. My kidneys were put in a healthy condition and I have not been bothered since. I sure think Doan's can't be beat as a kidney remedy."

MOST PITIFUL SIGHT IN LIFE

is a man or woman who has "will-power" as a result of nerve force exhaustion.

All the physical suffering which may be caused by nervous irritability, backaches, backache, indigestion, heart palpitation, etc., as a result of nerve exhaustion, are nothing as compared with the awful effects upon the mind and "will-power."

The most pitiful sight in life is a man or woman who has "will-power" as a result of nerve force exhaustion. This is most effectively accomplished through the use of Nuxated Iron.

In such cases, do not take more stimulating medicines, nor narcotics, for they only further injure your delicate nervous system, but what you need something to put more nerve force in your nerves and more from late food to help make new nerve-force, which to feed your starving nerve cells. This is most effectively accomplished through the use of Nuxated Iron. This valuable product contains the principal chemical constituent of active nerve cells of the brain and spinal cord, giving organic iron for the blood, and may therefore be safely consumed by a man and a nerve food. Over 4,000,000 people are using Nuxated Iron, and results are guaranteed to every man, woman or child who uses it. Ask your dealer or the manufacturer for your money. Doan's of substance. DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN
THE FAMILY LAXATIVE
Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of liquid sugar, and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It works gently, is free from griping, and contains no narcotics. Bottles can be had at any drug store, and the cost is only about a cent a dose. Just try it!

HALF-OUNCE BOTTLE FREE
Free escape constipation, or even if you do not require a laxative at this moment, let me send you a Half-Ounce Trial Bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. FREE OF CHARGE so that you will have it handy when needed. Simply send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 114 Washington St., Manchester, Ill. Write today.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU WASH YOUR HAIR WITH
Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.
The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.
Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

FOCH AND PERSHING TO RECEIVE ALL FORMER SOLDIERS

Reception in City Hall Rotunda at 5:15 P. M.
Thursday Added to Program for Visitors.

HOMING PIGEONS WITH MESSAGE RELEASED

Mayor Sends Welcome to Marshal, Which Will Be Delivered to Him in Kansas City, if Birds Reach There.

A reception for former service men, members of the American Legion and those not members, which Marshal Foch and Gen. Pershing will attend, has been added to the program for Thursday, when the Marshal and the General will be all-day guests of St. Louis. The reception will be held in the city hall rotunda at 5:15 p. m., following a two hours rest period, which Marshal Foch will spend at Hotel Statler.

From the city hall the guests will return to the Statler for the formal banquet, to begin at 6:30. A meeting of the Reception Committee today, to make final arrangements. For homing pigeons, destined for Kansas City, and bearing a message of greeting from Mayor Kiel to Marshal Foch, were released this morning from the front steps of the city hall. The Mayor and Miss Margaret Byrne of 6147 Suburban avenue, released the pigeons, two of which flew northeast, while another perched on the city hall tower, apparently to get its bearing, and a fourth flew due east, then returned west and fluttered around the city hall.

Kiel's Message to Foch.
If any of the pigeons reaches Kansas City, this message will be delivered to the Marshal:
"Only once in a decade does the honor of welcoming so distinguished a visitor as yourself fall to a city's lot. As Mayor of St. Louis I bid you a heartfelt welcome in the name of our citizens. St. Louis, reflecting as it does, the characteristics of all America, has a particularly warm spot in its heart for France, being French in name and origin."

"It was a Frenchman, who, in 1764, founded our city. Frenchmen were instrumental in its upbuilding. Today the French strain is predominant in many of our oldest families. Our nation's debt to Lafayette, to LaSalle, Marquette and the other intrepid Frenchmen, who played prominent parts in its history will never be repaid."

"The world war has done much to cement the firm feeling of friendship that has always existed between France and America. It is an endeavor to do our own humble part in decreasing these bonds that we bid you welcome to St. Louis."

Personnel of Foch Party.
An official list of the personnel of the Foch-Pershing party was obtained by James E. Smith and Edward Hidden of the Reception Committee while the Foch-Pershing special train was in St. Louis yesterday on its way to Kansas City. The list, following the names of Marshal Foch and Gen. Pershing, is:

Gen. Henri Desticker, chief of staff; Maj. George C. Marshall, aid to Gen. Pershing; Gen. W. D. Connor, honorary aid to Marshal Foch; Maj. Jean Demierre, Capt. Rene L'Hopital, Lieut. Paul de Soubeyran, aids, and Dr. Paul Andre, physician to Marshal Foch; Count de Chambrun, Charles M. Bertrand, member French Chamber of Deputies; Stephen Lauzanne, editor Paris Matin; Francis Drake, commander Paris Post, American Legion. American Legion representatives accompanying the party are:

Franklin d'Olier, Chester C. Bolton, Robert C. Norton, Henry D. Lindsay, George F. Tyler, C. E. McCullough, J. M. Loughborough, Leo A. Stafford, Fred Pickman, J. T. Garrity and Alton T. Robert.

Count de Chambrun visited St. Louis at the time of the visit of Marshal Joffre in 1917. He is the great-grandson of Gen. Lafayette. At the train yesterday he remarked to Chairman Smith that his great-grandfather had written an account of his impressions of St. Louis in a diary that has been handed down as one of the possessions of this family.

Pershing Honorary Host.
The committee has decided that Gen. Pershing will be regarded as an honorary host, he being a native Missourian, and that the official greeting will be centered upon Marshal Foch.

A plan for entertaining the Sixth Infantry, as military units passing through the city were entertained in wartime, has been made by the Eighth District Federation of Women's Clubs. The Sixth Infantry is to march across Eads Bridge Thursday morning, completing its march from South Carolina, and is to fall into line behind Marshal Foch and Gen. Pershing, who will later review the regiment at Twelfth and Olive streets.

After the review, the regiment will march to Lafayette Park, and the clubwomen plan to serve to the soldiers, at the park, box lunches containing sandwiches, doughnuts, apple and cake, and to serve hot coffee to all. Mrs. John S. Payne of 5172 Kensington avenue, president of the District Federation of Clubs, has announced the plan to the Foch Reception Committee, which has approved it.

At Washington University, where the guests are to make a short stop about 11 a. m., the entire student body is to be grouped on the terrace. Chancellor Hall will greet the Marshal on behalf of the city, and a young woman student will present a bouquet.

Special Train Arrangement.
It has been learned that the four railroads which are hauling the Foch-Pershing special train from Washington to Kansas City and return, by way of St. Louis, Indianapolis and Chicago, are receiving $1 each for the fare of the entire party. The Interstate Commerce Commission requires that some charge be made, and the roads decided to make the rate as low as possible, as the American Legion is paying the bill. The four roads are the Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central. The cars were furnished by the Pennsylvania.

SOLDIER BONUS PLANS DELAY VOTE ON TAX

Final Ballot May Not Be Reached This Week; Two Plans to Force Showdown on Bonus.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Possibility of a postponement until Saturday, or later, of a final vote on the tax revision bill through continued discussion of soldiers' bonus amendments confronted the Senate today. With the Reed amendment proposing retention of the excess profits tax and use of its proceeds to defray the costs of the five-way adjusted compensation plan still undisposed of after being discussed for four hours yesterday, bonus advocates also have in reserve another amendment introduced late in the day by Senators Simmons of North Carolina and Walsh of Massachusetts. Democratic members of the Finance Committee. This amendment proposes payment of the bonus out of the foreign debt interest.

While majority leaders say they plan to lay the Reed proposal on the table when formally presented, they have not decided what course they will take with the Simmons-Walsh amendment, which its authors declare would "make the issue clearly one of bonus or no bonus without raising the question of the condition of the public treasury."

Senator Reed, who declared during yesterday's discussion of his amendment that a vote to table it would be a "coward's vote," is delaying its formal presentation until there has been a full discussion of the whole question and the other amendment, its authors announce. It will not be formally moved for adoption until action has been taken on the Reed proposal.

Subject to the procedure with regard to the bonus amendments, other amendments are to be taken up on the tax bill proper.

Putting aside the bonus discussion, the Senate in a session last night made considerable progress on the bill, the most important action being the adoption of an amendment proposing a graduated capital stock tax at rates of 11 on each $1,000 of stock between $500 and $2,000,000, and $2 per $1,000 on all over $2,000,000. This is in lieu of a flat 11 rate on each $1,000 in excess of $500. The Senate then repealed a number of excise levies now in force, including the 5 per cent tax on all musical instruments, the 5 per cent tax on sporting goods and the chewing gum levy, the existing rate of which is 3 per cent.

Tausig, 4506 Maryland avenue. This evening at 8 o'clock he will speak before the members of the St. Louis Medical Society, at 3527 Pine street. Tomorrow morning he will depart for Springfield, Mo., where he will speak before a citizens' public health meeting tomorrow evening. Returning to St. Louis Thursday, Dr. Bloodgood will address the St. Louis University School of Medicine student body at Grand avenue and Caroline street at 11 a. m. At noon he will talk before the medical students of Washington University, at Euclid and Scott avenues. Thursday at 4 p. m.

An open meeting, which all women interested in questions having to do with the public health and social and welfare workers are invited to attend, will be held at the Washington University Medical Auditorium, Euclid and Scott avenues, Thursday at 4 p. m.

A cablegram of commendation of the purpose of National Anti-Cancer week from Madame Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, was received yesterday at Barnard Skin and Cancer Hospital, the local headquarters of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

MAN CHARGED WITH KILLING HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW ARRESTED

Louis L. Lormis, 28 years old, of 2818 South Seventh street, proprietor of a saloon at 2817 South Seventh street, who has been sought by the police since early Saturday morning for the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emily Schannuth, 48 years old, at her home, 4856 Varnum avenue, was arrested at 10 o'clock last night by Detective Sergeant Carroll at Eleventh and Peralta streets.

Lormis was married to Julia Schannuth, daughter of Mrs. Schannuth, June 28. Over two weeks ago she left him and returned to her parents. Friday she fled out for separate maintenance. Friday night Lormis went to see her. They discussed their affairs until after midnight, when Mrs. Schannuth and her husband, William, came home. Lormis accused Mrs. Schannuth of being responsible for the separation and shot her. Schannuth struggled with him. The weapon dropped to the floor. Lormis' wife threw it through a window. Lormis ran out, picked up the weapon and ran away.

When arrested he refused to make a statement. He said he had thrown the weapon away and that he had been roaming around.

FABLES FOR THE FAIR

Love and Eugenics

—By—Marguerite Mooers MarshallMORAL—"Jack Shall Have Jill, Naught Shall Go Ill."

ANOTHER "investigation" has laid bare the facts. The embattled eugenicists of this man's and woman's world, in Congress assembled, have given Love a clean bill of health.

"Love," seriously avers one scientist of international distinction, "is the basis of eugenic marriage." "Girls, don't be too intellectually critical. Trust more to instinct and less to intelligence. In short, fall in love and get married," earnestly advises another eugenic expert.

So now we know! Once upon a time a poet named Byron looked at the deep and dark blue ocean and gave it his kind permission to roll on.

And, sure enough, the obliging ocean has rolled on ever since! Once upon a time

A fly sat on a revolving car wheel and told the car it could proceed to wherever it was going. And, strange as it may seem, the car proceeded.

These we may trust that, under the approving eye of eugenic leaders, people will keep right on falling in love and getting married. Jack will be relieved to know he is scientifically justified in wedding Jill.

Because he likes the way her bobbed hair curls, and her trick of lifting one eyebrow higher than the other, and her jazz steps, and her insistence on being "a good sport," and her way of kidding a fellow along.

Jack will be deeply gratified to learn that it will be admitted altogether, which would indeed be a sad blow for eugenics! That she is right in picking Jack to be the father of her Pomeranian (and, ultimately, of a not impossible infant—it does happen even in apartment houses where children are forbidden).

Because she likes the make of his car, and the fit of his spats, and his teeth, and his hair, and his taste in neckties and slangs, and the abandon with which he cuts up at dances.

These are the reasons why in 1921 Jack and Jill fall in love with each other. And, marry—eugenically! Ah, after all, did Dante or Petrarch or Abelard or Adam have any better reason for his love affair?

No, little boy and girl are going to sit in the corner of the conservatory, to hold hands and talk about the future of the human race. To plan what sort of grand-grand-children they want to have—

It simply isn't done! They hold hands and kiss because their pulses beat quicker and lip thrills for lip, and human hearts, like flowers, must bloom. If heads had had anything to say about the mating of the generations.

The aforesaid human race would have called it a day long ago and quit cold. Since marriage is an act of insanity, a deliberate surrender of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, it should be committed in that state of lunacy.

Otherwise known as being-in-love. For, if not committed then, the chances are it will not be committed at all.

Housewife's Scrapbook

ONE housewife serves cantaloupe in a most delicious form. She cuts the thoroughly chilled melon in half and prepares it as usual. Then she sprinkles each half with a little nutmeg and in the center she pours a couple of tablespoons of strained honey.

When starching linens add one teaspoonful of salt and one of finely scraped soap to each pint of starch. This gives a pleasing luster to the linen.

When the raincoat gets muddy or stained cut a raw potato in slices and rub it well over the soiled portions. This will also remove mud stains from skirts, trousers and children's coats.

If you scrub the frying pan it is probable the next food fried in it will stick to the pan. To clean the pan rub with a newspaper or a hard crust of bread and wash with hot water which contains washing soda.

Do not throw away melon rinds. They make excellent sweet pickle that you will enjoy with the cold meat Sunday suppers during the winter.

Sometimes a splinter gets under the finger nail so solidly that it is difficult to draw out. If a cold water bandage is put around the top of the finger and kept wet and cold it will in time loosen the splinter and minimize the danger of festering.

"THE LOVE COWARDS"

By HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR
(Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Co.)

Nancy Hathaway has become a love coward because her fiancé has disappointed her and in spite of his dead-end she has determined to cut him out of her life.

CHAPTER III

"You Never Loved Alvin!" LILIA RAMSEY had been Nancy's friend. Therefore, Nancy found it hard to accept Alvin's part in the rather sordid affair. How could it mean enough to any woman, this desire to be in a man's arms, to make her forget everything else? Nancy could not understand this. Could Alvin be in love with Alvin? That was a possibility and would explain a great deal, but still Nancy could not understand how Alvin, knowing that Alvin belonged to another woman, could so lower her pride.

After her scene with Alvin, Alvin herself came to Nancy. She was blonde and cool and seemingly remote from man's passion as well as her own.

"Nancy," she said evenly, "don't make a fool of yourself!"

And Nancy flamed then like a little tiger. She might have been kind if Alvin had come to her in a penitent mood, but she had not expected anything like this.

"Do you want to break your own heart as well as Alvin's?" Alvin asked, cuttingly.

"My heart isn't broken," Nancy said contemptuously. "It would take more than that to break it."

"Oh, no it wouldn't," Alvin said coolly, "and if your heart isn't broken your faith and trust are gone, and you're planning to have nothing more to do with love, isn't that it?"

Now, let me tell you something, Nancy. You are behaving like a heroine in melodrama. What happened between Alvin and me amounts to nothing at all. It's you he loves, and I knew it all the time, but what are a few kisses? Surely, Nancy, you are going to be sensible."

"Then you don't love Alvin?" Nancy's tone should have warned Alvin, it was so full of horror.

"Certainly not, but I'm in love with love, and one can close one's eyes and imagine any man Alvin happened to be the man, just then, that's all."

"Oh! Nancy's slim hands went out in a gesture of disbelief. "I didn't know women could be like that!"

And yet only the night before she had told Alvin that in her belief women loved as strongly as men and were therefore as greatly tempted.

But faced with Alvin's admission, Nancy's head went back-water. The only justification for intimacies of any kind between a man and a woman was love. Nancy could have forgiven Alvin gladly if she had confessed her love for Alvin. As it was, Nancy's faith in everything was shaken, and she hardly knew which way to turn.

She got rid of Alvin at last, who finally threw up his hands in a characteristic gesture and called Nancy "a sentimental little fool."

"I don't think you really love Alvin. I don't think you ever loved him, or you wouldn't give him up so easily as this," were her parting words.

But Nancy had loved Alvin. She had loved him as youth loves, and had pinned her dreams to him, and because of him all life had seemed wonderful. Around him she had woven her ideals and to have given him up clearly and honorably to a woman he had loved and who loved him would have been as nothing compared to what had actually happened.

Alvin's parting taunt meant nothing to Nancy, for she discounted it entirely. Certainly she did not love Alvin enough to forgive him and then wait agonizingly for the next time. Perhaps it was true that she had never loved Alvin, the real Alvin, but only the ideal of him that she had built up in her heart. But she had loved him enough to suffer and to resolve because of him, to look up her emotions forever. Never again would she trust and believe in a man. It was the one way to keep from being hurt.

CHAPTER IV

The Mysterious Offer. TO GO on seeing Alvin day after day was an impossibility, and Nancy realized this. She must get away somehow, but where could she go? To visit relatives or friends who would ask unnumbered questions was out of the question, and to go away alone and brood on what had happened would be still worse. She didn't want to think she wanted to fill her days with work, so that at night she would be too tired to lie awake. The last few nights had been full of horror, for she had not been able to sleep until far into the night, and her dreams had been troubled and her sleep uneasy.

She was in a bad state of nerves from lack of sleep and constant brooding the morning she met Miss Henderson.

Nancy was not looking her best, for it was raining and she wore a sport hat pulled down over her reddish hair and a raincoat. Her eyes had dark rims around them and she had no color. It wasn't surprising that in the employment agency where Nancy had gone to look for a cook that she herself should be taken for someone out of a job, but when the thin, determined-looking woman marched up to her and asked her if she wanted a position, Nancy was surprised to say the least.

"I'm looking for a young woman with sense," Miss Henderson went on before Nancy could say anything. "Someone who can take care of a child and not ask questions." She looked at the girl searchingly as she spoke, and Nancy, with a sudden thrill of excitement, suppressed a smile of amusement and asked evenly:

"Where is the place?"

"That's just it; it's not in the city, and I'm going to have a hard time finding a girl for that reason."

"But you thought I might do?" The woman looked into Nancy's gray eyes and her face softened.

"You look as if you wanted to forget something that had hurt you," she said kindly, "that's why I spoke."

Then in a more matter-of-fact tone of voice: "But I'm willing to pay good money because the place is so isolated—$25 a week to the right person, but she must have certain requirements, no nerves, and a good education."

Before Nancy left the agency she had promised to go to Rock Haven with Miss Henderson the next day. Nancy was to have charge of a little girl of 7, she was to be with her constantly, and sleep in the same room with the door open. Miss Henderson put great emphasis on this last. She looked at Nancy steadily before they parted, and as though she read something that gave her confidence in the girl's steady gray eyes, her features relaxed and she breathed a little sigh of relief.

"I think you'll do," she said slowly, and as Nancy was to discover afterward, this was a great deal from Miss Henderson.

The position as it was outlined had an element of mystery about it. Nancy knew that without trying to frighten her Miss Henderson had conveyed a warning of some kind that she must not be surprised at anything that might happen.

The emphasis laid upon the fact that the child must never be left alone, the house isolated as it was on a lonely part of the coast of Massachusetts, the fact that Nancy must have strong nerves and ask no questions, all these things pointed to something mysterious, something that Miss Henderson had not wished to explain.

Nancy felt at once that she were setting out on an adventure of some kind, and she was thrilled and excited, but not frightened, at least—not yet.

Art Masterpieces
in America
By Maubert St. Georges

FRIEDLAND.

FRAN MEISSNER, besides being a great painter, was a master of detail. His most celebrated work, "Friedland," which hangs in the Metropolitan Museum, is typical of his exactness. The painter spent many years upon it. Each figure, and there are hundreds of them, was made separately from a model. In order to represent the trampled grain as it should be, he bought a wheat field and hired a troop of cavalrymen to charge through it.

The picture represents Napoleon at the zenith of his glory reviewing his troops before the battle. The artist sold the picture to the late A. T. Stewart for $50,000. At the sale of the Stewart collection it was bought for a much larger sum and presented to the Metropolitan Museum.

The life of Meissner reads like a fairy tale. He passed from extreme poverty to wealth that enabled him to have all he desired. His father, though prosperous, gave him only a slight education, keeping him in his shop to sweep floors and attend to customers. Finding his son determined on an art career he allowed him a year in which to make good, giving him 10 cents a day for food. Rather than be dependent on this miserly assistance Meissner underwent great hardships, painting canvasses at a dollar a yard.

Some have accused Meissner of exaggerating his details at the expense of perspective, yet even if this is true, this is so far that it is overshadowed by his achievements in all the essentials that go to make a great painter.

StoryBy THORNTON W. BURGESS.
Jerry Muskrat Also Has the Feeling.

Who keeps my warnings never will Through unpreparedness suffer ill.
—Old Mother Nature.

"Hello, Jerry," called Peter. PETER RABBIT reached the Smiling Pool without mishap and looked eagerly for Jerry Muskrat. Jerry wasn't to be seen.

Peter looked over at Jerry's house, near here the Laughing Brook entered the Smiling Pool. Was it his imagination, or was Jerry's house bigger than it had been the last time he had seen it? Peter couldn't be sure. It was some time since he had visited the Smiling Pool, and then he hadn't taken an special notice of Jerry's house.

But now he looked at it very hard, and the more he looked the more the feeling grew that it was bigger than it had been. Certainly Jerry had been at work on it. But that might not mean anything more than that Jerry was getting it ready for winter. He did this every fall. Still he couldn't get rid of the feeling that it was bigger than it ever had been before.

Presently he saw something moving out from among the rushes on the further side of the Smiling Pool. At first it looked as if some fallen rushes were floating out of their own accord. Then he made out a little brown hump in the middle of them. Peter knew instantly that it was Jerry Muskrat bringing more rushes for that house.

"Hello, Jerry," called Peter. Jerry didn't reply. He couldn't. You see, his mouth was full of those rushes. He knew better than to try to talk with his mouth full.

When he reached his house he climbed out of the water and dragged the rushes up on the roof. Then, without saying a word, he carefully worked them in place where he wanted them. When he had fixed them to suit himself he sat down to rest.

"Hello, Peter," said he, his eyes twinkling. "What is new in the Great World?"

"Nothing much that I know of," replied Peter. "Isn't your house bigger than was?"

"I hope so," replied Jerry. "If it isn't I have wasted a lot of time and worked hard for nothing. It will be bigger still before I am through with it. This roof ought to be twice as thick as it is."

"Why?" asked Peter. "Because we are going to have a long, hard, cold winter," replied Jerry. "And the thicker this roof is the warmer my bedroom will be."

"Pooh!" exclaimed Peter. "Probably you are doing a lot of hard work for nothing. Winter is a long way off yet, so how can you know what kind of a winter it is going to be?"

"I know," replied Jerry. "It is going to be long and hard and cold, and I am going to be prepared for it."

"That is what Johnny Chuck said, but I don't believe he knows, and I don't believe you know a thing about it."

"Johnny Chuck is right," declared Jerry Muskrat. "What has he been doing to get ready for it?"

"He has dug his house deeper than ever before, and he has stuffed himself until he is so fat that it is nobody's business but his own."

"Nobody," replied Jerry. "That is, nobody, unless Old Mother Nature whispers it in my ear while I was asleep. But I know. It is just a feeling, but all the same I know. You mark my words, Peter Rabbit, we are going to have one of the worst winters ever. But I don't care; I'll be ready for it."

With this, Jerry dived into the water and started for more rushes.

Girl Behind the Counter
New York Society LeadersRich Women Have Gone or Are Going Into Business and Have Chosen Fifth Avenue
as Field of Operations.

IS all society going to earn its own living? Many pretty women of the New York-Newport smart set have gone or are going into business.

A great deal has been heard about the architectural invasion of Fifth Avenue by "trade," apparently the "trade" social invasion of the same sacred locality has begun. The girl behind the counter is likely to be also the girl in the Social Register.

The two latest arrivals in the world of business from the world of society are Mrs. Robert Grosvenor of New York and Newport and Mrs. Richard Peabody of Boston. These women, who have entertained largely both in this country and abroad, have just opened a shop in the middle 50's which will specialize in French imported frocks and hats.

The well-known social matrons back in the enterprise doubtless will see to it that the costumes in the new shop are characterized by good taste as well as by modishness, and meanwhile will have the satisfaction of earning a livelihood.

Two other New York society women decided recently to open a shop dealing in fineries—in this instance dainty dresses for little children. The two social sponsors of this establishment are Mrs. Ledyard Stevens and her daughter, Mrs. John de Koven Bowen, among whose ancestors was Gov. Winthrop of Massachusetts.

Incidentally, a news despatch from Philadelphia only last week told of the opening of a children's specialty shop in that city by Mrs. John Wanamaker, who personally supervised its decoration and furnishing.

The beauty parlor business is another which—naturally enough—has an attraction for the beauties of the social world. One of the first to open a shop devoted to the enhancement of feminine charms was Mrs. Gouverneur Morris, the very lovely wife of the author of that name, whose family has held an assured social position since Colonial days. Lawrence Waterbury, the noted polo player, is Mrs. Morris' brother. When she opened her attractive establishment, just off Fifth avenue, about six months ago, she admitted that she long had had the ambition to become a "business woman," which she was fulfilling now that her two little daughters no longer needed her constant attention. And she talked as enthusiastically as any Emma McCuskey of the "tricks of the trade," by which she intended to make her enterprise a commercial success.

Another society woman who runs a beauty parlor only a stone's throw from "The Avenue" is Mrs. Cora Langdon Van Norden Koppinger. She is the daughter of the late Warner Van Norden, well known New York banker, and a member of the Colony Club. "I always wanted to go into business," she said when she opened her shop less than a year ago. "We have decided," she added proudly, "to move in up stairs and live over the shop, as they do in France. I like to be close to business."

Mrs. Charles De Looney Oelrichs, who was awarded a divorce in Paris not long ago from the nephew of Hermann Oelrichs, whom she married, set a real sensation when she opened behind the counter an smart perfume shop in the heart of the social district.

"I always thought it was lovely to keep a shop," she explained to a reporter. "I adore it. Every day I become enthusiastic. Society women in general are opening up shops for the best things in business. It seems to me there is a place for them in the business world. My daughter Marjorie may still remain a society girl, but she is to be a business woman if she can."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Light Rates.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 IN view of the fact that prices on all commodities, as well as salaries, are on the downward trend and many physicians have reduced their fees to pre-war rates, the Public Service Commission only recently permitted an increase in electric light and gas rates, which is a public utility used by 99 per cent of the population of this city and is an absolute necessity, especially to those in moderate circumstances.

The press now is teeming with an unsavory expose in the lighting controversy which does not seem to be in accord with the recent ruling of the Public Service Commission in permitting these companies to raise their rates and mauling the public.

Would it not be quite apropos at this time of unemployment and reduction of wages for the Public Service Commission to call an extraordinary session to investigate the apparent fraud committed by the light companies and assure themselves that they were not also bunked, as was the public, in the raise of rates.

The reduction of rates and a square deal is what the light-using public is entitled to (and I am one of them). The Public Service Commission should take rapid-fire action and relieve those in moderate circumstances from being accessories "before" or "after the fact" in becoming participants criminals by donating in excess charges for lighting and heating to pay for the surplus fund of business risks to keep up their own lighting cost. L. M. OTTOFF, M. D.

Interest and War.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I WISH someone would explain why every peace congress is followed almost immediately by a war. Is the Congress merely a clumsy camouflage or does the genius of history lie in the war? I am a student of history and I am a student of the Greek chorus and select certain diplomats as the members thereof?

Will the gentlemen at the conference take note of Ruskin's claim that high interest rates cause all the wars? Ruskin's position is rather amply documented, by death, yes, by 11,000,000 dead.

The press of Aug. 11 carried this dispatch from Washington: Gov. Strong of the New York Federal Reserve Bank told a congressional committee today that "the international payment of a given sum to the United States cannot be used both to reduce debts and interest and at the same time buy goods. It is not of greater advantage to the United States that the purchasing power of Europe be used to consume surplus American goods than to pay interest on debts."

Here is an admission from an expert banker that as long as interest is paid the people will not be able to buy back what they have produced; hence, glut, unemployment and the inevitable war for foreign markets.

Hurrah for Detroit!
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 COME on, St. Louis, take off your hats to the City of Detroit for assisting the married women whose husbands are able to make a living for them to resign. This step will make many happy homes, less divorces and more bread and needed clothes for the poor babies of the unemployed men. In the block I live, in nine married women out of 11 homes are working. A MOTHER.

The Three R's.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ABRAHAM O'BRIEN is right, and from what I hear and read, on all sides, millions of other people think the same thing about our educational system.

All children should graduate in the essentials first, such as reading, writing and arithmetic. Then after they have graduated from the grammar schools in these studies they should be given vocational education even though they begin learning at 10 years old, because it takes four years to learn many occupations, and thousands of children have to quit school at 14. If they could graduate in reading, writing and arithmetic and their vocations before time to quit school they could use the balance of their time in learning the things that are not so essential to their welfare, such as geography, history, grammar and other things.

The crying need of today is to learn the necessities first, and our Government, State and national, should let no selfish or self influence interfere with these rights of the people, which are necessary to their safety.
 E. E. K.

RESERVE BANK EARNINGS.

While the Federal reserve system has enabled the country to pass successfully through the most critical period in its financial history that is not to say that certain abuses have not crept into the administration of its affairs.

The law was enacted primarily to facilitate the flow of credit through the creation of an elastic currency and the establishment of means of rediscounting commercial paper. It was not intended that the reserve banks set up should go into the business of money making beyond the point of meeting the expenses necessary to the fulfillment of the law's object. Yet when one studies the statements of the district banks and sees their tremendous earnings the suspicion very naturally arises that something is wrong.

In the last annual report, for the year 1920, for example, we find the following:

BANK.	Capital.	Net earnings.
Boston	$ 8,000,000	$10,000,000
Philadelphia	8,000,000	9,672,000
Cleveland	10,000,000	11,000,000
Richmond	3,500,000	5,000,000
Chicago	14,000,000	25,000,000
Atlanta	4,000,000	6,000,000
Kansas City	4,500,000	5,500,000
St. Louis	3,500,000	5,250,000
San Francisco	7,500,000	10,000,000
Dallas	3,500,000	1,678,000

To operate the Federal reserve banks on a basis where they earn from 50 to 200 per cent on their paid-in capital constitutes not only an unnecessary and unwise tax upon the business of the respective districts, but it necessarily encourages extravagance in administration. It is but natural, under such circumstances, for salaries to go up, as they have in some of the districts, to astounding figures. It is to be expected, too, that the cost of plant and expenses will keep pace.

The St. Louis bank, for example, now occupying comparatively inexpensive second-floor space in a downtown building, has recently purchased a high-priced site in the financial section and is proceeding to erect its own home. Such a step, it is safe to say, would never have been considered but for the policy that has permitted the St. Louis and other banks to pile up such huge profits. The St. Louis reserve bank's new home will undoubtedly be an ornament in the downtown district, but it is wholly without economic justification. A reserve bank does not do business with individuals; its customers are member banks. There is no occasion for it to be located on the ground floor in the thick of pedestrian traffic.

It may be pleaded that, since all net earnings over 10 per cent that is paid into the surplus fund are turned into the Treasury the Government itself is benefiting by the present policy; but to admit such an argument is to deny the object of the system, which is to facilitate the flow of credit, not to levy taxes.

MR. TUMULTY'S IMPORTANT SERVICE.

Probably no political regime in history ever surrendered itself to the doctrine of "nonresistance" to the extent that the Wilson administration did when it disclaimed to defend fully justified acts of the utmost political importance. Col. Roosevelt toured the country making satirical reference in his public speeches to his so-called exclusion from the war. Will Hays harangued the nation in melodramatic lament of the injuries done Roosevelt and Wood as the victims of a naked political conspiracy.

Yet, never a word from Wilson, though his administration and all its workers were to be put on trial before the jury of the people. Nor has there been, nor ever would there have been, a defense from Secretary Tumulty himself. It has remained to Secretary Tumulty, the man most intimate with the President in all his deliberations, in the book now being given its first publication in the Post-Dispatch, to quote his former chief and give the world in detail the facts and circumstances of the incidents.

The public need not question the patriotic aspirations of Col. Roosevelt nor the abilities of Gen. Wood to recognize the eternal right and logic of President Wilson in keeping politics out of the administration of the army, on which the nation and the world depended for victory, by cleaving immovably to the military expedients.

Mr. Wilson's silence has preserved his dignity. Probably no amount of defense would have turned the 1920 election and saved the League of Nations cause in America. But it would have served the interests of history and of justice. These interests Mr. Tumulty now serves in recording for us the intimate, inside view of the most venomously maligned administration since Lincoln and the most silent of any of them in its self-defense.

THE NONPARTISAN LEAGUE'S DEMISE.

The recall of Gov. Frazier and two other Nonpartisan League officials in North Dakota is blandly explained by A. C. Townley, founder and organizer of the league, its guide and philosopher, and, in point of personal prestige, the league's largest beneficiary, as due to "overconfidence." In the bustle of last-minute odds and ends before leaving Fargo for Jackson, Minn., where he is to serve a 60-day jail sentence, Mr. Townley paused to observe "there is just as much Nonpartisan League sentiment in North Dakota today as there ever was. Also there are just as many league votes."

Mr. Townley's interpretation of the rebuke that has been administered at the polls is cheerful, but it is not true. The facts are against it. The facts are that the Nonpartisan League enjoyed its heyday of popularity in its infancy, when Utopian promises poured abundantly from its tracts and prospectuses. The tidal vote on which the recalled Frazier was swept into office in 1916 subsided perceptibly in 1918 and all but disappeared in 1920. The biennial elections show a steady recession which has finally culminated in actual repudiation.

The explanation for the adverse judgment of last week's election is to be found in the Nonpartisan League's failure in the test. Given every opportunity to make good its promises, with officials of its own choosing and with laws and extraordinary privileges of its own designing, it has floundered out. The pretentious program of State-owned and State-managed enterprises is practically wrecked. The experiment in State socialism has left the citizens of North Dakota with a large and difficult problem of liquidation and reorganization.

It were foolish, however, to underestimate a movement which mustered such a following in North Dakota and has created such a stir in a number of other states. It cannot wholly be accounted for by the plausibility and energy of Townley or the gullibility of the league's members. Complete as the fiasco has been of the league's millennial devices, the swift and easy organization of the league had not been possible except for the dissatisfaction which prevailed in North Dakota and which obtains more or less in other agricultural states. That dissatisfaction is a condition, not a theory, and it is a condition to be considered and its correction undertaken as soon as the Nonpartisan League's debris has been removed.

Perhaps the public should not make the mistake of expecting too much from the disarmament conference, but the conference should not make the mistake of expecting too little from the public—if it flunks.

THE STUFF OF EMPIRE.

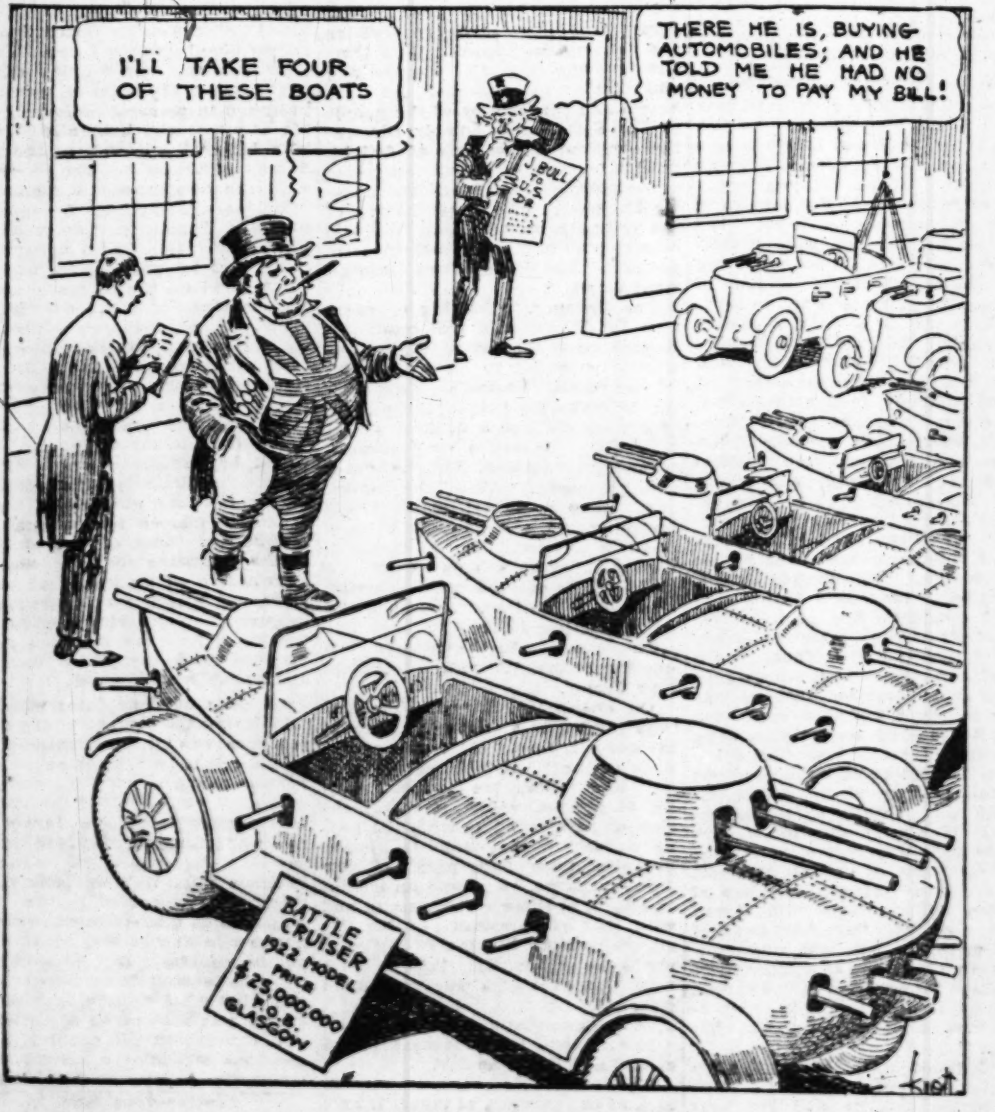

The emerald ear pendants with which Bonaparte humored his Josephine have survived the collapse of the Napoleonic hopes and the last anguish of the fallen conqueror. Since then the third Napoleon has come and gone, and now these same jewels appear in the marts of the world as a part of the salvage of the greatest empire and the greatest revolution of them all. The Russian debacle has forced the sale of the Napoleonic heirloom to a French jeweler, who will put the gems on the New York market with the expectation that they will one day grace the ears of an American millionaire's wife.

Empires go on, it seems—it takes an empire to flash a $100,000 bauble—but the stuff of them changes. Napoleon coveted the pomp of power though it were erected on the dead bodies of his countrymen. The American prince, too, will have his principalities though they be founded on pillars of soap and sheaves of chewing gum. Verily, the stuff of empires changes but fair women remain to be pampered and princely trinkets to pass from the imperial prize winners of one generation to those of another.

Anyhow the belligerent Democratic national committee men are not quarreling over the spoils of office.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
 By Clark McAdams

COL. ROOSEVELT AS AN AUTHOR.

COL. ROOSEVELT, as a contributor for 20 years to Scribner's Magazine, was one of the most thoughtful, considerate and efficient authors. When he promised a manuscript for a certain date, that promise was kept absolutely, no matter what intervened.

When he returned from the Spanish-American war and landed at Montauk, he went word to the magazine that he wanted to talk about the lawn at Sagamore Hill, and the cover of his book which developed into "The Rough Riders." It was all perfectly clear in the Colonel's mind. He knew the grand divisions of his story, although he had not written a line. There were to be six articles, and the date was set for the delivery of the first one so that the serial could begin in the magazine promptly.

Very soon he was nominated for Governor of New York. I paid to him one day: "I suppose this will interfere with your dates for 'The Rough Riders'?"

"Not at all," he replied: "You shall have the various chapters at the time promised."

As everybody knows, he made a vigorous campaign for Governor of New York, and was elected and inaugurated in the following January. Notwithstanding this arduous and exciting book was delivered on time.

It was the same way with his "Oliver Cromwell," which was written while he was Governor of New York. He was a busy man, but his literary work was just as complete as though he had devoted his whole time to it.

When he was President he sent for me, and taking me into his library, opened a drawer in his desk, lifted out a complete manuscript, put it on the desk, and said in effect:

"It isn't customary for Presidents to publish a book during office, but I am going to publish this one."

We then went over together the complete manuscript of "Outdoor Pastimes of an American Hunter." Some of these papers had been written before. Other chapters were the product of his hunting trips in Colorado and Louisiana while President. The book was ready for the printer, title-page and all.

In all the long and busy years of his presidency, if you wrote and asked him a question one day, the reply, almost without exception, would be received on the third day, just as soon as a letter could get to Washington, be answered and returned; and all his letters had a personal touch, with characteristic corrections, or the impulsive postscript written with his own hand.

To him the making of a book was a delight. He knew all the machinery of it, and he read his proofs with the accuracy and industry of an expert.

But the literary work that he best enjoyed was writing his "African Game Trails." The whole book, even the preface, was written by his own hand, word for word, in triplicate, in the very heart of Africa. One of the men who was with him said that no matter how arduous was the day in the hunting field, night after night he would see the Colonel seated on a camp stool, with a feeble light on the table, writing the narrative of his adventures. Chapter by chapter this narrative was sent by runners from the heart of Africa. Two copies were dispatched at different times. When he got to the headquarters of the Nile one of the chapters was sent from Nairobi and the duplicate was sent down the Nile to Cairo. These blue canvas envelopes often arrived much battered and stained, but never did a single chapter miss.

It was the same way with his "Brazilian Wilderness," and the Colonel used a part of the same stock of paper that he had taken to Africa.

Each block consisted of three shades arranged in order, white, blue and yellow, so that the original and two copies were distinctly marked. Only a few months ago the Colonel said: "I have just used the last of those pads that I took with me to Africa." A special water-tight and ant-proof case had been made for that trip and loaded with enough paper, as it proved, to write half a dozen books.

In civilized countries the Colonel generally dictated his articles and books, but made a most thorough revision of the typewritten copy. The stenographer who took his dictation for "Oliver Cromwell," when Roosevelt was Governor, said that he would appear in his study with some books of reference and a pad of memoranda. Then he would start to dictate, and with hardly a pause would complete a chapter of historical narrative which demanded a very careful knowledge of dates and places. This was not as easy as a narrative of personal experience. Nevertheless, I once read a chapter of it before the Colonel had seen the stenographer's transcript. It could have been printed as it stood, with mere mechanical proofreading corrections.

Col. Roosevelt took a great interest in the illustrations, the type pages, and the cover of his books. He came in one day with a painting made by a friend of one of his boys and said: "I think that will make a first-rate frontispiece in color for 'A Book-Lover's Holiday in the Open.'"

It was the painting of a cougar in a tree on the brink of the Grand Canyon. His son Kermit, who was with him on his African and Brazilian trips, became an expert photographer and made hundreds of photographs from which both of those books were illustrated. It was a delight to see the father and son together going over this material and making the choice of pictures. Each would recall some incident, and the anecdote and by-play were as good as anything in the printed books.

The Colonel was particularly proud of Kermit's endurance. He said one day that there was not a single one of the negro runners who could outlast Kermit in the African wilds.

In short, Col. Roosevelt was the ideal contributor, the ideal author to deal with, open to every suggestion and ready to consider any reasonable change. It was an unending pleasure to work with him. He inspired the same sort of loyalty in his literary coworkers as he did among the members of his regiment of soldiers. Those who knew him adored him, even though they often disagreed with him.

SHADOWS.

Coming events cast their shadows before. One wonders why when Mr. Harding made the distinction between black and white so clearly, he didn't show what should be done about it. There was something so fearless about this address that one holds his breath and gasps. "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

Mr. Wilson would have pointed out the white man's obligation to the negro in such a way that it need not be swathed in that broad term, education.

It has been a long time since we publicly conjured up the picture of a virgin white girl standing at stake while a yellow and black man rattled the dice. Such a thing might come to pass. Brute force is typified by the savage. The white man persists in holding up to the men of all colors, force as an ideal and he holds no monopoly on it.

There's only one possible solution—that the white man set an example of love and kindness so clear and unmistakable that the men of all colors can see its advantages and embrace it as an ideal.

WIDE ROADBEDS.

From the Rockford Register-Gazette.

THE road engineers of the county of Wayne, Mich., containing Detroit, where they have the oldest experience in the country in concrete road building on a large scale, are now building to a standard calling for 20 feet width in place of 18, this being accomplished by cutting out the shoulders as part of the roadway for vehicles. The cost amounts to about the same thing. Their experience is that motor-car drivers attach importance to the increased width when traffic is dense and that with this increase they do not need the dirt shoulders. With the greater width it averts the choking of the roadway when some slow-moving team or truck is in the current of traffic by permitting the faster moving to turn out and keep up the pace. On the principal thoroughfares and those having congestion under conditions frequently recurring it is of considerable importance to open the way for keeping the procession of cars going at a good pace so as to increase the capacity of the road for handling traffic. Those who had the experience will recall the loss of time on one occasion at Camp Grant when the influx of visitors was so great that it took two hours to go four miles between town and camp. This was an extreme illustration of the difficulties overcome by the wider roadway. On some roads around Chicago they have discovered that they should have made the roadbed 12 feet wide instead of 18. Not a week passes that leading routes within 30 miles of Chicago do not have traffic so dense as to slow up the current of travel to five miles an hour at frequent intervals for a considerable period because the channel has become choked with cars. That tells the story. The use of the cars is steadily gaining in volume. The plans must reckon with the future growth.

WHEN AN ACCIDENT IS A CRIME.

From the Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

THE world is gradually getting away from the older idea that conscious intent to commit crime is in all cases a necessary element in criminal responsibility. A case in point has just been decided in the Court of Appeals in Cleveland. A young man was convicted of manslaughter in the Court of Common Pleas, last March, for running down a young girl with his automobile. It was claimed in defense that the girl ran out before the machine so suddenly that it was impossible to stop in time to save her. This seems to have been true, but it was shown by the prosecution that the accused was driving at an illegal rate of speed. The question then was whether the man was liable simply for violation of the speed law, or also for the death that resulted from this violation, though with no intention on his part. The case was appealed, and the Court of Appeals sustained the conviction and ordered the sentence enforced. "The plaintiff is not relieved," the Court says, "by the fact that the child ran suddenly in front of the machine. One who is engaged in the performance of an unlawful act (exceeding the speed limit, in this case) must take the criminal consequences of what happens to others as a result of that act."

Doubtless this seems harsh to the friends of a young man wholly incapable of intentionally taking the life of another, but in the complicated life of today society must protect itself against the reckless cause of disaster no less than against the offense that is deliberately planned. The only effective way to do this seems to be to hold lawlessness itself as a criminal element in such cases, of just the same degree as would have been the intentional doing of the wrong in which the lawlessness resulted.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Luster at Once.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Cream," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

INGROWN TOE NAILS

Nail Turns Out Itself if you Toughen Skin Underneath

A few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

HOUSING AND HEALTH PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

Educational Questions Also on Program of Women's New Constitution Institute.

The second day of the League of Women Voters' Institute on the proposed new State Constitution opened today at Sheldon Memorial, 3848 Washington boulevard, with a program of discussions on farm tenancy, rural credits, good roads, health and housing and industrial relations at the morning session.

The afternoon session is devoted to educational problems and the evening to revenue and taxation. The institute will close with three sessions tomorrow on legislative, executive and judicial matters.

Short Ballot Advocated.

Speaking on the short ballot yesterday, Walter J. Atsche said it was the opinion of many great leaders that the long ballot was cumbersome and confusing and not representative of Democratic government. The short ballot could be applied in Missouri, he explained, by making the office of Governor the only elective State office; by continuing to elect legislators two at a time, and appointing Judges or have them elected at separate elections. In counties the short ballot could be applied, he said, by electing only County Commissioners.

Alexander Robbins of the Board of Election Commissioners, discussing the right to vote, said since women in the last two years have overturned large political majorities in St. Louis and Chicago a feeling of anxiety is pervading the political camps of both parties, and that party leaders are beginning to question their ability to carry through a campaign without taking the independent voter into their confidence.

For Present Suffrage Law.

Robbins said he saw no reason why there should be educational or property qualifications for voting in this State, as is advocated in some quarters, and believes that the present law giving universal suffrage is a good one. He said he was not in favor of secrecy of the ballot as it was not important today and should be left out of the new Constitution.

GERMANY ALLOWED EXTENSION IN REPARATIONS PAYMENT

Commission Grants Delay to Avoid Interfering With Industrial Loan.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—The German Government yesterday requested the Reparations Commission for additional time in which to pay, declaring that payment on Nov. 15 would seriously interfere with negotiations now going on for a large industrial loan. The German officials asserted that the loan had every chance of success and would materially aid Germany in paying the next billion marks due on her reparations account Feb. 1.

The Reparations Commission agreed to the delay only upon condition that Germany promise to pay the 500,000,000 gold marks promptly on Dec. 1, and such assurances were given by Germany.

ARISTOS FLOUR

For Sale by All Grocers

Try this Recipe: Aristos Bread

1 quart warm potato water
2 heaping tablespoons sugar
1 heaping tablespoon lard
1 level tablespoon salt
1 1/2 cake compressed yeast
3 quarts Aristos Flour

PROCESS.
Dissolve yeast, sugar and salt in water. Add lard to Aristos Flour. Make into a dough, and after greasing dough on top, put aside and let stand for five hours (which is termed proofing). Then press dough down and let stand again from one-half to one hour, according to temperature. Now fold dough into loaves without kneading, and let them stand three-fourths to one hour before baking. It will usually take one hour for this size loaves to bake—four loaves being what this amount of dough will make.

PRAYERS ON NOV. 11
Small of Illinois Requests Observance of Armistice Day.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 1.—The Associated Press.
Small, in a proclamation last night, called upon the people of Illinois to pause for two minutes silent prayer at 11 o'clock on Armistice day in honor of America's dead warriors. The day was made a holiday by the last Legislature.

The Governor asked that appropriate exercises be held throughout the State and directed that all flags on State armories and other buildings be displayed at half-mast.

ARMS CONFERENCE TO BE ORDEAL OF FAITH, SAYS HARVEY

and single-minded and worthy of the absolute trust of all the other nations. He quoted King George's message to the President and the latter's reply, and added:
"Back of all their statements and publicists stand in wistful hope the entire peoples of our common race. Our own position is plain," he continued. "America does not fear war. Why should she? Geographically she is self-contained and self-supporting in all respects."
America's Coast Line.

"Her long coast lines are inadequately protected. Some of her most splendid cities appear as tempting targets to the warriors of the seas. But the circumstance is relatively trivial. The greatest guns in the world could not create the havoc of an earthquake such as that from which San Francisco rose like a phoenix from its ashes, more resplendent than ever, in a bare score of months."

"It is a matter of most casual observation that we rebuild New York every 30 years. And back of the cities and the coast lines lies a great country which constitutes the real America with a registered total of more than 24,000,000 men between the ages of 17 and 45 capable of bearing arms."

"To pronounce such a land unconquerable is to utter the merest truism. No, America does not fear war; she simply hates it."
"But the security of the United States does not rest upon her physical resources alone. Her moral position is impregnable. Not only will she never seek additional territory by conquest; she would not accept it as a gift."

"Within her borders lie unoccupied lands sufficient to sustain a population treble that which she now has. Well, indeed, may she rest content—a friend to all nations, and, so far as her people are aware, without an enemy in the world."

Discussing the argument in Congress whether the army should comprise 100,000 or 150,000 officers and men, Ambassador Harvey repeated the observation of a British statesman that "its only excess is in its moderation."

American Naval Program.
He recalled the embarkation of America during the war on a naval program designed to make the American navy equal to that of any other Power, and continued:

"There was no criticism of that prudent action then. That program was in process of execution in the early part of the present year. Suddenly there came a change. The President announced his intention of calling a conference. Practically simultaneously, at the instigation of the President, Congress reduced the normal appropriation from $184,000,000 to $90,000,000, which, taking into account the increased costs of labor and materials, represented barely 40 per cent of the sum which ordinarily would be allotted. In consequence the present rate of naval construction is about 40 per cent of the normal."

Furthermore, commented the Ambassador, the stipulation of Congress prevents "in any event, except war itself," the beginning of the building of a single new warship of any type before July 1, 1922.

"The President today," he said, "seems to say by his acts that the way to disarm is to disarm. Even so, his clear vision is dimmed by no illusion. None knows better than he that the traditions of centuries cannot be swept aside over night, none more fully realizes that to attempt too much is to jeopardize the prospect of any fulfillment."

Bonds of Friendship.
"Whatever the outcome of the Washington deliberations," the Ambassador declared, "conditions cannot remain the same. With the ending of the conference will surely come to the hearts of hundreds of millions either gladdening hope or deepening despair. So, too, with the relations of our beloved countries. The bonds of friendship and forbearance, which now hold us more closely together than ever before in a century, are bound to be strengthened or relaxed by what happens in Washington. If we cannot act in union now there is slight reason to believe we ever can."

"The project of raising from the straining backs of peoples the burdens of great armaments offers a line of less resistance than was ever before presented. No less essential is the removal of the causes of war which still hover over the Pacific; but is not a happy augury to be found in the fact that all such dread possibilities have disappeared from the Atlantic?"

"The Washington conference marks only the blazing of the trail, only the beginning. Yet greater works are to follow in fulfillment of the common aspirations of all mankind, purport, we may well believe, to the design of almighty God."

Ambassador Harvey concluded by assuring Premier Lloyd George, Arthur J. Balfour and their associates in the delegation to Washington "a most grateful welcome."

Notable Men Present.
The dinner to the British delegates was a gathering of notable men, including some of the most prominent members of the Government.

Lloyd George, was detained by the debate in the House of Commons on the Irish question, so that Balfour was the only delegate present when the company assembled, although there were hopes that the Prime Minister might appear before the evening was over.
Balfour and Ambassador Harvey were the principal speakers, beside Lord Desborough, who presided. Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Ambassador, was present, as were also Lord Curzon, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs; H. A. L. Fisher, president of the Board of Education; Sir Alfred Mond, Minister of Health; Sir Laing Worthington-Evans, Secretary for War; Ian MacPherson, Minister of Pensions; Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer; the Robert P. Skinner, the American staff of the American Embassy, and Consul-General.

Seeking New Ideas

For Christmas Activities One Finds—

The Oriental Bazaar

—offering wealth of exquisite embroideries from the Far East. Teakwood cabinets, hold Satsumaware that would tempt a connoisseur. Unique and tasteful gifts may be purchased for a trifle or one may spend a goodly sum for a piece of carved jade that would grace a museum collection.

If you would be individual in your Christmas remembrances, you can do no better than browse the aisles of the Oriental Bazaar. (Fifth Floor.)

The Art Needlework Department

—opening up amazing possibilities to the woman who would choose dainty characteristic gifts. Without extravagance she can here select beautiful designs, worked on fine materials. There are stamped materials ready to be transformed by her own beautifully-wrought embroidery into a rarely valuable possession.

Whether she seeks to fill a need in her own linen closet or would select a dainty Christmas gift, we offer her a wealth of inspiration in the new designs and patterns of the Art Needlework Department. (Second Floor.)

The Gift Shop

—already gay with Christmas treasures that satisfy those who would shun the commonplace. A French glass perfume bottle with glass flowers atop the stopper, reminds one of a dainty boudoir. A tiny pottery lady from Spain who conceals a bell under her flaring skirt graces the dining table and serves a good purpose with her tinkling note. Candlesticks and desk sets, always fill a need in the modern home.

We but hint at the beautiful, unusual and useful possessions to be found in the Gift Shop. (Sixth Floor.)

Referee Shea Is Given Rehearing; Result Withheld

Boxing Committee Announces It Will Make Decision on Suspension Next Monday.

NEW REFEREES SOUGHT

Coyne, Nisest and White Put in Applications as Ring Officials Upon Request.

Reconsidering the case of Leo M. Shea, the local boxing referee whose permit as ring official was withdrawn last week, the St. Louis Boxing Committee, representing the Police Board, last night gave Shea a four-hour hearing. It was nearly midnight when the announcement was made that a final decision in the matter had not been reached.

The committee gave out the following statement: The action of the committee of Oct. 26 was a temporary suspension pending the committee's action based on several of recent decisions rendered by him. After hearing Mr. Shea's case this evening we have taken no action under advisement and will hand down our final decision at the next regular meeting of the board. The suspension was not prompted or based on any belief of willful wrongdoing by Mr. Shea in his official capacity, but solely upon the opinion of the committee that the decisions were erroneous. The controversy in question in no way affects Mr. Shea's standing as a promoter of boxing in this city.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES ST. LOUIS POLICE BOARD.

The regular meeting of the board will be held next Monday and at that time Shea's status will be made known.

The Boxing Committee last week sent the following communication to Shea: The approval of your name by the undersigned as referee of boxing exhibitions in the city of St. Louis is hereby withdrawn.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES ST. LOUIS POLICE BOARD.

This notice was sent following an unpopular decision rendered by Shea in the Barker-Kerns-Henry Malcor contest in which the crowd almost unanimously voiced objections to Shea's ruling.

Shea previously "On the Carpet." Previously the board had asked Shea to explain his reasons for a decision in the Ora Dean-Mike O'Donnell bout, which he also called a draw despite a wide margin gained by Dean, in the opinion of ringers.

While the committee labored during their four hours session, a small army of boxing promoters and budding referees kicked their heels in the outer office, a majority of them standing up for the entire period for lack of chairs. The promoters sought dates and others referees' licenses.

The committee announced that Al Nisest, Freddie Coyne and Jack White had applied for licenses and that their applications probably would be favorably acted on. Referees are needed to relieve the scarcity of talent existing here since the suspension of Shea and the retirement of Walter Helmer.

New Candidates All Experienced. Coyne, who has charge of a floor at one of the downtown department stores, formerly was a boxer and later a referee. He has officiated in Little Rock, Philadelphia, the Missouri Athletic Club, St. Louis, and other cities. He has had wide experience and should make a good official. Jack White has handled many bouts here and elsewhere. Al Nisest is a former local boxer and tried refereeing in Army bouts last year.

Whether Shea's suspension will be lifted was not suggested by the committee members; but the action of the board representatives in requesting Coyne and others to apply for referee's permits indicates that they will stand pat.

Dates approved by the Boxing Committee included: Angelica Athletic Club, Nov. 8; Southern Athletic Club, Broadway Athletic Club, Nov. 14; Business Men's Athletic Club, Nov. 16. Interesting matches have already been arranged for most of these dates and others are in the making.

The first college show will be between Artie Hol and Cleveland Harry Kabakoff of St. Louis. On Nov. 22 the Angelica Club is planning the most interesting event in professional boxing, a contest between Peewee Kaiser and Pat Moore, and will be the hardest yet given the St. Louis scrapper. Moore is exceedingly fast and clever and has always given a good account of himself here in fights with local and other boxers.

ST. LEOS OF MUNICIPAL LEAGUE PLAY GILLESPIE SOCCER ELEVEN SUNDAY

The St. Leos of the Municipal Soccer League and the Gillespie Moose of Gillespie, Ill., will play their second round United States Football Association contest at High School Field next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. It was announced today. This will be the first game in the national title series for the St. Leos, they having drawn a bye in the first. The Gillespie Moose eliminated Wilkesville United, another Gillespie team, in the first round.

The Paulians, the other Municipal entry in the title series, will go to Springfield, Ill., next Sunday for its contest with the Springfield Football Club. The Paulians in the first round eliminated the Prendergast, another Municipal team, by a score of 2 to 0.

Officials of the St. Louis Soccer League will hold a meeting later in the week, at which it probably will be decided to play the cup tilt between the Ben Millers and De Anzels at High School Field next Sunday, with the game between the Scullins and Screw Co. being played Nov. 11.

Harvard Unlucky, But Centre Deserved to Win, Says Roper

Princeton's Head Coach Asserts Saturday's Games Furnished Biggest Upsets of the Season—He Was Surprised by Cornell's Great Victory.

By W. W. (Bill) Roper, Head Coach at Princeton.

CENTRE'S 6-9 victory over Harvard was certainly unexpected, but from the play of the two teams on the field, it about represents their comparative strength. However, Harvard would have certainly won the game except for a very unfortunate penalty pass in the fourth quarter when Buell shot a beautiful forward pass to Churchill who carried the ball to the five-yard line. Someone on the Harvard line was discovered off-side by an official and the play called back. I have no doubt Harvard would have made a touchdown on the next play if they had not been penalized, but even at that Centre deserved to win. They played a great game and fought like demons in the second half.

"Bo" McMillin showed very good generalship in running the team. Harvard was anticipating a forward passing open attack early in the game. McMillin very wisely bided his time and showed nothing until the third quarter, being content to hold the ball as long as he could on simple plays and kick on fourth down. In the third and fourth quarters, he opened up, after Harvard had permitted itself to be out of a fancied sense of security that the open plays would not be called. Had McMillin started opening up the game at the very first when the Harvard forwards and backs were anticipating just this sort of play, I doubt if he would have done much. But coming as these plays did, after a full half, they were very effective.

Stars Rushed Into Game. Of course, Harvard didn't start her entire strength. Brown, McComber and Gehlke were the only regulars in the first lineup, though there is very little difference between some of the linemen who started the game and some who came in later. I do not think Harvard anticipated a very heavy game and handicapped as they have been with injuries, they didn't feel like putting in their first string men unless they had to. Toward the end of the game, Buell, Churchill and several others were rushed in to stop the ever-increasing strength of Centre's offense. It was too late, however.

It is a very difficult thing to reset a football machine in the middle of the game when things are breaking against you. It is always easy to start your full strength and take out men when the tide is in your favor, but it is just the reverse when things are going the other way and you attempt to replace some sort of football after the Navy and Chicago games. I think we might as well give up all hope of a respectable showing against Harvard and Yale.

Penn State Showed Power.

I was really delighted to see the sound trouncing Penn State administered Georgia Tech. The Harvard game evidently put the Penn State team at the top of its form. The Tech players were unable to stand the aggressiveness of the Pennsylvania's attack. Georgia has an offense and very little defense. The Southern started out like a whirlwind and scored their lone touchdown at the beginning of the game. On the next kickoff, Killinger caught the ball and ran through the whole Tech team, 85 yards, for a touchdown. The game turned right here and what had been prophesied to be a very stiff contest turned into a romp. Penn State's offense has as much power as any in the East. The backs line up parallel to each other just behind center, with the quarter back in a diamond formation, outside of either tackle. They drove inside and outside of Georgia's tackles with tremendous force.

HEINLE GROH NO LONGER OF VITAL CONCERN TO GIANTS, SAYS MCGRAW

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Manager John McGraw, well satisfied with the make-up of his world's baseball championship team, said last night before leaving for a Southern winter vacation that he would keep the organization intact for 1922. "That team doesn't need any strengthening," he said.

The Giants' leader said he was especially well satisfied with the way the pitching staff found itself in the latter part of the season, and expected greater strength next season through the work of Pat Shea and Bill Ryan, youthful members of the hurling staff.

McGraw said that if Heinle Groh were thrown on the market again the Giants would make a good bid for him, although he was no longer of vital concern to the New York club.

Jackson Academy Wins.

The Jackson Academy football eleven defeated the Laura A. C. yesterday, 12 to 7. A 40-yard run by Claggett and a 75-yard run by Byrne, following a kickoff, gave Jackson its two touchdowns. Josephs scored the losing touchdown.

WOMEN GOLFERS HOLD FINAL TOURNAMENTS OF CAMPAIGN, TOMORROW

The final tournament of the St. Louis Women's District Golf Association will be held over the Glen Echo course tomorrow morning. Play will consist of nine holes birdy bogey and a 36-hole low net score. In addition, the final team matches will be decided.

Following the competition, prizes for the season will be awarded. There will be four cups—one for the team winning the competition; for the women making the most points for her team; one for lowest gross score in the events and one for lowest net score in events this season.

Billiken Stars Will Return to Lineup Saturday

Blue and White Will Journey to Omaha to Meet Powerful Creighton Machine.

Creighton University's football team which will oppose the St. Louis University Billikens next Saturday at Omaha, Neb., is regarded by a large number of followers of the gridiron game as the most powerful eleven in this section of the country. Experts who have witnessed many teams of the mid-west and Missouri valley schools declare that the Omaha squad is more powerful than even Iowa or Nebraska.

Des Moines University, which held Schiller's Lombard scoring juggernaut to a lone touchdown was humbled by the Creighton aggregation by a 28 to 0 score. Marquette, one of the real strong teams of the North was beaten 3-0 in a desperate battle. The Kansas Aggies who defeated the Missouri University bowed to the Creighton machine and suffered a 14-7 setback.

Creighton Has Fine Record.

Last Saturday the Omaha outfit trimmed the St. Xavier College team from Cincinnati by a 14 to 7 score. The Xavier team was the same organization that held the famous Creighton College to a 27-6 count in a battle in which Centre was forced to resort to every known trick to score. Spectators at the Creighton-Xavier game Saturday declared that the score did not indicate the real superiority of the team from Nebraska. Creighton was penalized for a total of 265 yards during the game and several of the penalties came when the Omaha team was within striking distance of the Xavier goal.

Creighton is being coached by Aldrich, the former Yale star, and Fitzgerald, the great Notre Dame player. Aldrich handles the line from tackle to tackle and Fitzgerald instructs the ends and backfield. The backfield of the Billikens is composed of Lane and Kelly at the halves and Lupke, a St. Louis boy, at fullback. The trio are former students of St. Mary's College and formed the backfield of Steadman O'Rourke's team when he coached the Kansas Aggies at Creighton. Lane is a very versatile youth and is looked on as the greatest football prospect developed in years.

Lane does the kicking for the Omaha team and can boot equally well with either foot. A drop kick, propelled by his left foot resulted in the score which defeated Marquette.

Lupke a Great Plunger.

Kelly is a speed demon who is generally on the receiving end of forward passes. Lupke is a line plunger said to be the superior of Lincoln of Missouri. Long, a tackle, and Berry, a center, are men of the highest football caliber. Emory, a fullback, is fast and hard and is a sure tackler. Vanacker is a powerful tackle whose specialty lies in crashing the opposing linemen and making large gains for Lane and Lupke. Driscoll has been acting as field general throughout the year and has shown that he is a very heady and capable quarterback.

Coach O'Rourke will leave St. Louis Thursday evening, taking 22 of his men on the trip to Omaha. With the exception of "Dixie" Drake, the star fullback, O'Rourke will put all his stars into the game. This will be the first game of the year that the little mentor has been able to assemble his best men for a game. Injuries and late reporting have handicapped the Billiken coach. O'Rourke refused to take the Lombard game seriously and is of the opinion that the beating will be a benefit to his second string men.

Matheson, the end who played a star game against Missouri and has been on the injured list since that game; Malloy, O'Rourke's best bet to tackle, another hospital tenant; Lewis, Capt. Jimmie Finnegun and Gertrude, the most valuable and versatile man on the squad, will all take part in the battle against the Nebraskaans.

PRINCIPALS SUBS BEAT CENTRAL SECOND TEAM

Principia Academy's second football eleven defeated the Central High school second team yesterday, 12-0. Taylor, right tackle, scored both touchdowns, after receiving forward passes from Stillson, quarterback. The first was a 20-yard pass followed by a 10-yard run, while the second score resulted from a pass over the goal line.

Jackson Academy Wins.

The Jackson Academy football eleven defeated the Laura A. C. yesterday, 12 to 7. A 40-yard run by Claggett and a 75-yard run by Byrne, following a kickoff, gave Jackson its two touchdowns. Josephs scored the losing touchdown.

California and Stanford Ahead

Elvens Expected to Fight It Out for Pacific Conference Football Title.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—From present indications, the Pacific coast conference football championship will again be between Stanford and California universities. California now heads the conference list with two wins and no defeats, having defeated Oregon 49 to 0, and last Saturday, with a badly crippled team, Washington State College, 14 to 7.

Stanford played its first conference game last Saturday and surprised by defeating Oregon Agricultural College, 14 to 7. Stanford is improving daily and will be in a position to give the conference championship, Nov. 12.

The Oregon Aggies, after their overwhelming 21-0 victory over the University of Washington, lost to Stanford, Washington State College, after several preliminary season victories, ran up against a stone wall when they met the California bears and lost their first conference game. University of Washington is considered out of the running. The local boys by visiting stars, and other ill that offend onlookers and make it possible for the Pete Hermans of the game to get by and get rich.

There are two ways to silence the booing and criticism directed at the referees to take the spectators to the confidence by having the announcer explain the reason for close decisions.

Another is to draw up a standard code for judging bouts and distribute these rules on cards to every ticket purchaser, until fans are educated as to the method of determining winners in this vicinity.

Referees' Views Vary.

AS matters now stand there is no standard of judgment for boxing contests here, or anywhere else in the United States. Referees in the same city have different codes. Some penalize everything; other referees let the boys go to it, cat-and-dog, devil take the hindmost.

Some score effectiveness by rounds; others say that one fighter may offset in a single round all the hairline advantages gained by his foe in 10 others.

Education of the fan and a common standard of judging are the remedies for the situation.

Two Judges Might Help. Another relief suggested is that two judges be assigned to view the fight and render a decision, with the referee breaking a tie, should one exist.

This plan has been found effective, except that in many places it is difficult to find judges capable of rendering decisions. If it is next to impossible to choose satisfactory referees, it ought to be completely so to find judges.

And even here the necessity of a common system of viewing and appraising bouts must be developed, or the two judges may be pulling at cross purposes, too.

Worshipping False Gods.

RECENTLY, at the Armory, Tommy Friel, known to the ring

By Charley Brickley, Harvard's Greatest Captain and All-American Back of 1912-13-14.

LESSON NO. 6—THE PASS GAME.

The above diagram is the first of a series of forward pass plays which will be illustrated in these columns. The one illustrated above is comparatively simple, yet requires the utmost alertness on the part of the attacking team. This pass is executed with an unbalanced line and from a running formation. Its success depends on the end (see figure 5) getting through, drawing in the defensive back, then outpacing him as he turns to the right with his body between the defensive tackle and the ball, in case the pass fails.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Let the Crowd In on It.

BOXING referees are having a rough time here, under decision conditions. In contrast to the place they are employed under no-decision rules. But a return to the old condition would be a mistake, if this is in contemplation. No decisions breed "tailgating," indifferent training, "carrying" of local boys by visiting stars, and other ill that offend onlookers and make it possible for the Pete Hermans of the game to get by and get rich.

There are two ways to silence the booing and criticism directed at the referees to take the spectators to the confidence by having the announcer explain the reason for close decisions.

Another is to draw up a standard code for judging bouts and distribute these rules on cards to every ticket purchaser, until fans are educated as to the method of determining winners in this vicinity.

AS matters now stand there is no standard of judgment for boxing contests here, or anywhere else in the United States. Referees in the same city have different codes. Some penalize everything; other referees let the boys go to it, cat-and-dog, devil take the hindmost.

Some score effectiveness by rounds; others say that one fighter may offset in a single round all the hairline advantages gained by his foe in 10 others.

It is easy wonder that fans, ignorant as to the reasons for a ruling that does not agree with their own system of judging a bout, raise an uproar?

Education of the fan and a common standard of judging are the remedies for the situation.

Two Judges Might Help. Another relief suggested is that two judges be assigned to view the fight and render a decision, with the referee breaking a tie, should one exist.

This plan has been found effective, except that in many places it is difficult to find judges capable of rendering decisions. If it is next to impossible to choose satisfactory referees, it ought to be completely so to find judges.

And even here the necessity of a common system of viewing and appraising bouts must be developed, or the two judges may be pulling at cross purposes, too.

Soccer Officials Fine 3 Players And Suspend Two

Rowdiness Will Not Be Permitted in United States Football Association.

That officials of the Western Division of the United States Football Association championship series will stand for no rowdiness was evident at the meeting held here Sunday, when three players and a linesman were fined and suspended for their conduct in the first round game. All the trouble came at Lorain, O., and at Detroit.

Fistfouls formed a great part of the interest in the clash between the Lorain Eagles and the Maygars of Cleveland, according to reports that were submitted to the committee. Two players and a linesman were the sufferers.

Fullback L. Malnar, of the Maygar team was fined $10 and suspended until Nov. 20 for an attack on Player Inalls of the Lorain team. For this Arthurwell attacked Engells of the Maygars, knocking out three teeth and fracturing his jaw. For this Arthurwell was fined $10 and expelled from organized soccer for the remainder of the 1921-22 season.

The rioting did not end here. Linesman P. Havay, a Lorain man, crossed the field and attacked a member of the rival team and was expelled from organized soccer forever.

The trouble did not end until 41 minutes of the second half had been played, when police interfered and stopped the game. At the time the score was 1-0 in favor of the Maygars and the committee decided to rule it a complete game and allow the Cleveland entry to enter the second round of the competition.

In addition the officials of the Lorain club were reprimanded for playing the game on an open field, which is an infraction of the U. S. F. A. rules, and passing the hat to obtain funds.

The other player who suffered was C. Zebro of the Maygar A. C. Detroit, who resented the remarks of a spectator and attacked the fan. Zebro was fined $5 and reprimanded.

violates it by refusing to accept the inevitable, as Friel did, is ostracized. The invisible brand of the "quitter" is on him forever. And if he hopes for success he must take his medicine or quit the profession of boxing.

Then the gong rang. Tommy, knowing he had but one good hand, also knowing he was probably inferior to his opponent, even with both hands sound, still stepped nonchalantly forward and proceeded to absorb a cruel beating for the next seven rounds. Believing that he had no chance, he still went to a certain punishment and a possible knockout.

It is the law of the ring. He who Nobody wants to view a contest between a crippled man and a hustler at the hands of a doctor.

Particularly will the strongest grudge be held against the "quitter" who starts in all Lincoln, Bundschu and the like, and then, when the fight is in progress, shows real speed the Bulldogs last year promised to the Kansas game, port given by the Missouri Athletic Club, to carry the Missouri Louis either Friday morning.

Washington-Missouri Game Will Be Started At 2:30 P. M. Saturday

TAKING no chance of having a "take" or "flake" play put over under cover of darkness, the management of the Washington University football eleven is arranging to start Saturday's game with Missouri University at 2:30 p. m. Last week the final 15 minutes of play against Ames was "the closing."

The Pikers held a long signal drill yesterday. The Washington University football eleven is arranging to start Saturday's game with Missouri University at 2:30 p. m. Last week the final 15 minutes of play against Ames was "the closing."

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 1.—The first secret practice of the season for the University of Missouri football team today ushered in the week of preparation for the Missouri-Washington game at St. Louis next Saturday.

Coch James Phelan announced this morning that the gates to Rollins Field would be closed today and Wednesday, but that the Tigers would take their final workout at some before the Piker clash Thursday, with the public invited.

Coming out of the Drake game with no serious injuries, with Al Lincoln back in condition, and with the slump which brought defeat two weeks ago at the hands of the Kansas Aggies shaken off, the Tigers are expected to appear against Washington with the strongest grid machine they have yet mustered this year.

Particularly valuable to the Phelan offense will be the backfield reserves which he will have at hand. Starting in all probability, Lewis, Lincoln, Bursch and Kershaw behind the line, he will have Humes, Packwood and Knight, all of whom showed real speed and drive against the Bulldogs last week.

The Missouri-Washington game this year promises to rank nearly with the Kansas game in interest and support given by the Tiger routers. It is probable that a special train will carry the Missouri contingent to St. Louis either Friday night or Saturday morning.

YALE FOOTBALL TEAM WILL SCRIMMAGE FOR THE NEXT THREE DAYS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 1.—The Yale first eleven had only a signal drill yesterday, while the varsity substitutes had a short scrimmage against the scrubs. George Beckett ran the first team. His injuries are not sufficient to keep him from playing. Charlie O'Hearn didn't go through the signals at all, but ran back some kicks and had individual instruction. On Beckett's team were the men who started the Brown game: Blair and Deaver, ends; Into and Diller, tackles; Cruikshank and Guernsey, guards; Landis, center; Aldrich, left halfback; Jordan, right halfback; Mallory, fullback. This team will have scrimmaging for the next three days. There is a possibility that Quille will be in the varsity lineup at either guard or tackle some time this week.

The scrimmage lasted half an hour and the varsity was able to score only once. The varsity tried to play the open game and many forward passes were uncompleted. In addition to this there was considerable fumbling. Murphy made one beautiful forward pass to Haas, which netted 46 yards, after which Oed made a touchdown in a line plunge. During the latter part of the scrimmage McKay replaced Butty at guard.

The coaches have made it plain to the men that they are by no means satisfied with the playing of Yale in the game against Brown Saturday.

Both Earned Lionel Electric Train Awards

But one of this pair of clever 6-year-old boys was pictured and incorrectly identified as the other in a recent advertisement. Pictures of both, properly identified, are printed today in correction of the error.

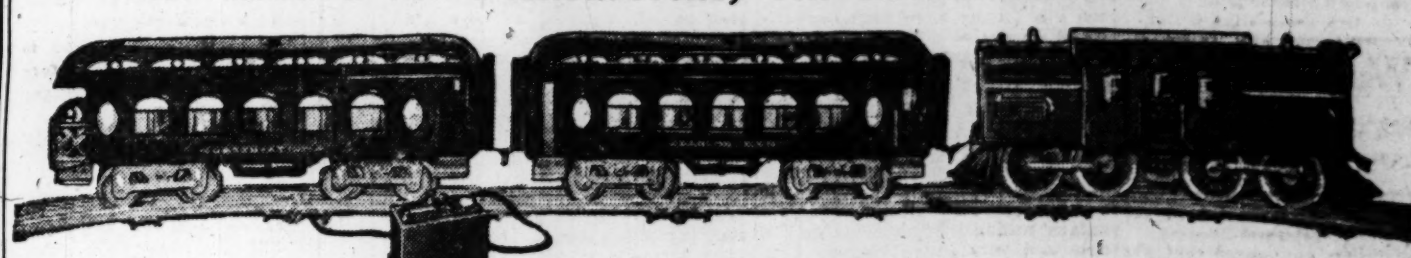

These juvenile engineers are in line for much real enjoyment. Ownership of a Lionel outfit at their age means not merely a season's fun, but sustained, continued enjoyment for years, regardless of seasons. The Lionel is equally adaptable to outdoor and indoor service. It is more than a mere plaything, and has a charm for adventure-loving, imaginative youth that no other boys' fun-maker can wield.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Oil Shares Continue Strong Feature While Steels Show Tendency Toward Weakness Close Little Changed.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Evening Post for its copyrighted financial review today, says:
"Uncertainty and irregularity prevailed on the Stock Exchange, with trading somewhat erratic and yesterday, but still on a fairly active basis. Short selling and profit-taking were again in evidence on the market, however, displayed a fairly steady undertone and toward the close prices were little changed. Domestic oil shares continued to be active for strength while steel shares showed weakness. Call money opened at 1/4 per cent but was reduced to 1/8 per cent at the start of the second hour."

Wheat Prices Slump.
"Continued absence of export demand finally made itself felt in the wheat market in no uncertain fashion. The December future broke to a new low record for the crop of 1922 and after recovering half a cent was still off 1/4 cent on the day. December corn also fell to a new low of 45 1/2 cents. Lack of export buying has been conspicuous for about a week and the wonder is that prices have held as well as they have. When today's decline set in, hedge selling and the picking up of stop-loss orders accelerated the fall. Cotton also showed weakness. As in the case of wheat, speculative buying is lacking, while the trade demand is insufficient to absorb current offerings from Southern and local sources. Temperatures in the north at the start was due to a late rally at Liverpool, but in the subsequent reaction the January delivery sold off 25 points to 17 1/2 cents."

Exchange Market Quiet.
"With holidays in the chief European centers, the fluctuations in the foreign exchanges were not of particular significance. France and the United States reacted after yesterday's gains, the former commanding 7 3/4 cents and the latter 4 1/2 cents. Sterling was in supply and sold 1/4 cent lower at 25 1/4. German marks fell off 3 1/2 points to 53 of a cent which is close to the previous level. The news which has accompanied the announcement of the 15 days delay allowed the Germans by the Reparations Commission in the matter of making their Nov. 15 payment, indicates that the Germans are making strenuous efforts to increase their supply of foreign exchange. Active selling of marks in foreign markets is still a possibility."

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—All of the markets moved today with a great deal of indecision. It was not that there are any important developments or revision of views regarding the general business and financial. Prices went off early in the day while the specialties were dropping, but there was no selling of consequence and the greater part of the list came back readily. A number of individual stocks were bid up at various times, among them the chain store issues like Kroger and Woolworth. California Petroleum in the oil group, Columbia Gas, Peoples Gas and Brooklyn Union Gas in the public utilities, and Colorado and Southern in the rails.
Renewed weakness in German marks was the second of the deadlock which has lasted from the middle of last week. As mark exchange goes down close to its low, less was said about the possibility of a cash indemnity installment and about the negotiations which German representatives have been pictured as conducting with American and English bankers. Sterling and franc were also lower.

The Bond Market.

The bond market went ahead today with very little reference to the uncertain fluctuations in the other markets. It was quite as buoyant as it had been at any time. The fact that the last two issues of Treasury certificates put out at 4 1/4 and 4 1/2 per cent respectively had been fully subscribed for, was mentioned as testimony to the abundance of funds seeking investment despite the immense offerings which have been coming out in recent months and years. The number of individual bonds which topped their previous best of the year was an unusually long one. It included the Argentine 5s, which rose to a point; the Copenhagen 5 1/2s, the Burlington general 4s, Atchafalpa adjustment 4s, American Southern 4 1/4s, New York Central 7 1/2s, Southern Pacific refunding 4s, American Telephone and Telegraph collateral 4s, American Smelting 5s, Armour 4 1/2s, Bush Terminal 5s, Goodyear 8s, Du Pont 7 1/2s, Western Union 4 1/2s, Kellogg-Springfield 4 1/2s, General Electric 5s and Diamond Match 7 1/2s.

In these and other bonds, the advance extended from a half point to a point and a half. Southern Pacific 5s were up nearly 2 points from their last previous sale. The St. Louis and San Francisco adjustment 6s and Indiana 6s were in active demand. So were New York Central consolidated 4s and debenture 5s of 1917, which was a half point higher. The Pan-American 7s were an exception, dropping over a point, this because of the uncertainty regarding the state of the future oil supply of Mexico. The Great Northern 7s at 10 1/2 were up nearly 15 points from the underwriting price. There were no new offerings of importance today.
Prices not only recovered in the afternoon, but the majority of them left off higher on the day. In the professional parlance, it was said in most instances for prices to go up than to go down. Fresh buying came into the American oil 1 1/2

3,361 Women U.E. Shareholders
On Sept. 30, 1921, the classification of Union Electric 7% preferred shareholders, nearly all of them residents of St. Louis, was as follows:
Number of women owning singly.....2,182
Number of women owning jointly with women...234
Number of women owning jointly with men...945
Number of men owning jointly with women...945
Number of men owning jointly with men.....34
Number of men owning singly.....2,548
Whole number of shareholders.....6,888
Whole number women shareholders.....3,361
Whole number men shareholders.....3,527

Shares purchased jointly by two persons become the property of the survivor at the death of either, without delay or expense.
The husband who buys these shares in his own and his wife's name, knows that if he dies his widow will continue without interruption to receive the regular quarterly cash dividends of $1.75 per share. He knows that if she has need to sell them she can get $100 per share for them through our Securities Department.

With the State's approval, to finance growth of the business, Union Electric is now selling the fifth $1,000,000 of these shares, directly to home investors. The price is $100 a share for cash, $101 on a ten-monthly-payment plan, under which plan buyers are credited with 7% interest on their payments.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE MYTH.

"Me go to a dance?" said the cave man
In response to the plea of his wife.
"Me go to a dance? Say! There isn't a chance.
Huh! Nixie! No! Not on your life.
I don't like these head waiter costumes.
Those foot-wagging fellows are dubs.
You go if you choose, and I'll run through the news
And have dinner at one of the clubs."
So spoke, in the pride of his power,
The abysmal and primitive brute.
But at ten thirty-four he was out on the floor
In his pumps and his head-waiter suit.

"Treat 'em rough, is my way," said the cave man.
Don't let the Jones get the whip hand.
When I hang up my hat I'm boss of the flat
And my word is the word of command.
If the wife wants to go to a bridge game
I take down a book from the shelf.
She always can go, but I want her to know
That she goes by her little old self."
So spoke, in the night of his wisdom,
The man with the dominant mien.
But at nine he remarked, as his highball he parked
"I'll make it no trumps, Mrs. Green."

We hear a great deal of the cave man.
As he lived in the past and the present.
His manner is rough and his accents are gruff,
His ways are distinctly unpleasant.
But don't be deceived by his reading
Or the talk that you catch on the fly.
Search among human kind and you likely will find
That there never was any such guy.
